King Resolution Asks Swift Senate Quiz on Dairy Product Prices

Committee Action Is Set to Start Tomorrow.

Black to Lay Matter Before House Body on Wednesday.

A resolution asking immediate inquiry into price levels of dairy commodities in the District was introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator William H. King (Democrat), Utah, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

At the same time, the Utah senator prepared to take the matter up with his full committee at a meeting called for 3 p. m. tomorrow.

He predicted speedy action on his resolution. It would give the Senate District Committee authority to compel attendance of witnesses, sit at all times and ferret out every particle of evidence tending to throw light on the situation.

King Promises Action.

The committee would report its findings to the Senate, together with recommendations for remedial legislation. Its inquiries particularly would seek to determine if a combine is operating in the District.

"I intend to get behind this matter and push it," said Senator King, who has a reputation for bulldog tenacity in following through legislation he sponsors.

"We are going to find out what is holding up these prices," he added.

Black Acts in House.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the Capitol, Representative Loring M. Black, jr. (Democrat), New York, laid plans to bring the District milk situation, as disclosed by The Post, before a meeting of the House District Committee next Wednesday.

"Milk prices in the District are out of all reason," he said, contrasting them with the comparatively low levels in his own State of New York.

"We should find out why they are high."

Representative Black said he may insist on an independent House investigation, but first will talk the matter over with the full House District Committee when it meets next week.

Text of Resolution.

The resolution introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator King follows:

"Whereas, it is claimed that price levels in dairy commodities within the District of Columbia indicate that competition in trade in such commodities has become stifled therein, and that the cost to the consumer of such commodities exceeds the cost to the producer by more than a fair

Philadelphia, May 10 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Record says "A well-authenticated rumor, bolstered by activities at the Philadelphia Navy Yard," indicates President Roosevelt is preparing to make a dash across the ocean to the world economic conference in London next month.

"Although there has been no hint the President would attend the conference, Navy officers here are preparing the new 10,000-ton cruiser Indianapolis for the fastest Atlantic crossing ever made by a surface craft," the Record says.

U. S. Cream Cheaper

Beltsville Farm Sells Product at Only 30 Cents

(This is the fifth of a series of articles discussing the retail prices for milk and cream in the District of Columbia. The series is the result of a study of prices and marketing, made by The Post.)

If every housewife in Washington could go to the corner store and buy a full pint of heavy cream for 30 cents, she would consider herself fortunate. Under the prevailing prices she is compelled to pay 70 cents for this quantity of the product.

Yet, the Department of Agriculture, which produces cream on its dairy experimental farm at Beltsville, is able to sell to departmental employes the surplus cream from the farm at 30 cents a pint. This is less than half the price a consumer would pay if he bought the same quantity from a Washington distributor or a retail store.

It is understood, of course, that no profit accrues to the Government through the sale of the cream. It is merely a convenience for departmental employes and a method the Department of Agriculture has of disposing of the surplus of the dairy farm.

This cream is produced under the exact requirements, which are laid down by the District of Columbia health regulations for the production of milk on privately owned dairy farms.

The Department of Agriculture conducts this farm to further its experiments. Most of the milk produced by the herd is used in laboratory experiments. The surplus, that is, that which is beyond the laboratory needs, is sold.

The department takes this surplus and separates the cream. The cream is pasteurized at the farm and is then bottled. It is then hauled to the Capital, and the milk is distributed at the department. There is no home

WAR DECLARATION HITS KELLOGG PACT

"Higher Law" Governs Paraguay's Action, Minister Tells State Department.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

The menace of war in the New World swept up from the Gran Chaco yesterday when Paraguayan Minister Enrique Bordenave formally notified the Department of State of existence of a state of war between his country and Bolivia. Declarations of hostilities merely clarifies the situation that has existed between the two countries on and off since December, 1928.

Repeated efforts that have been made by the three peace-making agencies, the United States, acting through the Commission of Neutrals, the neighboring countries of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru and the efforts of the League of Nations to avert this catastrophe have been unavailing. At the present time the United States is not expected to invoke the Kellogg pact.

With flashing eyes, Minister Bordenave declared yesterday after his formal visit to Assistant Secretary of State Francis White:

"They may kill us all, everyone of us, but they will never take one acre

Italy to Pay Interest On Morgan Gold Loan

Rome, May 10 (A.P.).—It was learned definitely today that Italy will pay the interest on the $100,000,000 Morgan loan in gold when due, thus fulfilling the gold clause in the bond contract.

The interest approximates $6,000,000. The payment decision contrasts with the agreement announced last Saturday by Italian corporations that floated dollar loans in New York totaling $235,800,000 to abrogate the gold clause in the bond contracts and pay interest in depreciated dollars.

Man Fatally Hurt When Hit by Beam

Charles Campbell, 56, of 318 Channing street northeast, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an 18-foot iron beam while working on the new Archives Building at Seventh street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

According to witnesses, Campbell, who was employed by the Fuller Construction Co., was working on a brick wall when the beam slipped off a truck, pinning him to the wall.

He was rushed to Emergency Hospital and treated for a fractured pelvis, skull and ribs. He died a few hours later.

A coroner's inquest has been set for 11:30 a. m. tomorrow.

Mahatma Exhausted From His Latest Fast

Poona, India, May 10 (A.P.).—The Mahtama Gandhi was described tonight by his own physician as "exhausted, but not unduly ill" from the fast he began on Monday.

The physician, after examining the frail political and spiritual leader who embarked on a three weeks' fast in protest against untouchability, said he was surprised and disappointed at the rapid fall in Mr. Gandhi's condition so soon.

2 WARRANTS ISSUED IN CANCER FATALITY

Drs. Ferris and Street Will Surrender Today in Death of Mrs. Britton.

Warrants alleging manslaughter were issued for Dr. Sherwood Ferris, 200 Shepherd street, Chevy Chase, Md., and Dr. H. B. Street, of the Washington Cancer Hospital, 1414 Girard street northwest, yesterday by Montgomery County, Md., authorities. Dr. Ferris informed county police last night that he and Dr. Street would surrender today at police headquarters in Rockville, Md.

The warrants were issued by Frank I Davis, clerk of the Montgomery County Police Court, and were sworn to by Detective Theodore Vollten, of the county police identification bureau at Rockville, who attended the inquest into the death of Mrs. Cora L. Britton, who died last week at the South Baltimore Hospital after having been treated for cancer by the two doctors.

The coroner's jury at the inquest held in Baltimore Tuesday night held the treatment given the woman involved "criminal conduct, gross malpractice and brutal treatment." The finding of the jury was forwarded to State's Attorney Stedman Prescott, of Montgomery County, who made a careful study of the testimony before ordering the warrants issued.

Mrs. Britton, wife of Roland L. Britton, prominent Mays Landing, N. J., physician, was treated at the Washington Cancer Hospital and at the home of Dr. Ferris in Chevy Chase. It was testified that a corrosive salve was used as treatment for a cancer of the breast and that death

199 Hotel Bills Beaten, Man Fails in Washington

Buffalo, N. Y., May 10 (A.P.).—Described by police as a "hitch hiker de luxe," who, they said, admitted stopping at 200 of the country's best hotels and paying for a room in only one of them, John J. Henderson, 36, former Elizabeth (N. J.) hotel clerk, is under arrested here on charges of passing worthless checks.

Officers said they found a diary which recorded 15,000 miles of wandering that took Henderson all over the country. The one city where he paid for a room, he said, was Washington, D. C. He explained the city was full of Easter visitors at the time and rooms were hard to get.

Musante Kidnaping Suspect Is Paroled

Baltimore, May 10 (A.P.).—William Kendall, arrested for alleged complicity in the kidnaping of Caroline Musante, 13, of Fredericksburg, Va., today was released in custody of his attorney by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, who heard testimony presented in an effort to have the man extradited to Virginia.

The Fredericksburg girl, who was kidnaped while on her way to school on February 2, identified Kendall as one of the pair who had seized, bound and tied her to a tree for an entire day.

Another witness, Roy Hagy, who was a passenger in an automobile in which the two men thought responsible "hitched" a ride, was not positive in his identification of Kendall,

TRADE CONTROL AND WORK PLAN DRIVE IS BEGUN

President Bares Program to Speed Passage by Congress.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

As final legislative action was taken in the Senate yesterday on the omnibus farm relief and inflation bill, President Roosevelt turned his personal attention to the next major measure in his emergency rehabilitation program, a twin project to stimulate employment through industrial control, and to launch a gigantic public works program.

A two-hour White House conference resulted in a final determination by administration leaders to consolidate the projected control-of-industry bill with a new $3,300,000,000 public works program for quick enactment.

Although details of the measure have not yet been agreed upon, President Roosevelt formally disclosed to the conference his plan to consolidate the two emergency measures with a view to expediting both. In a general way each seeks the same objective—the immediate return of men and women to work.

House Rebels in Caucus.

As a special committee composed of President Roosevelt's official advisers, industrial leaders, and representatives of organized labor, began to whip the new bill into final form, rebellious members of the House pressed in a formal caucus last night for a clear definition of Democratic party policy on the matter of relaxing the antitrust laws.

At the caucus an unsuccessful attempt was made by Democratic insurgents to forestall any legislation at this session designed to relax the antitrust laws. After about two hours of bitter attacks by the insurgents on the proposed suspension of the laws, the caucus circumvented the attempt to put the House Democratic majority on record against the proposed legislation, and adopted a resolution "expressing confidence in the leadership and patriotism of President Roosevelt."

Calls Platform Flouted.

Representative McFarlane, of Texas, proposed the resolution declaring against any relaxation of the antitrust laws. McFarlane contended that the farm-relief-inflation bill, with the administration's railroad bill and the projected industry control measure would permit relaxation of the laws. He declared this was in contradiction of the Democratic national platform.

The new industrial control plan, now virtually agreed upon in general outline, would mean the ultimate abandonment of the Perkins-Black compulsory 30-hour week bill, as the essential aims of this measure would be incorporated in the new bill.

Members of the White House conference said there also had been substantial agreement upon the principle that the public works bond issue

Murphy and Couzens Take Oaths at Detroit

Detroit, May 10 (A.P.).—In a brief ceremony at the city hall today, Mayor Frank Murphy took the oath of office as Governor General of the Philippines, and was succeeded in the chief executive chair of the city by Frank Couzens, son of James Couzens, Michigan's senior senator.

Murphy said he planned to leave Detroit at midnight Saturday for San Francisco, whence he will sail May 19 on the President Coolidge. He said he will arrive in Manila June 16, after making official stops at Tokyo and Shanghai.

GASTON MEANS MAY TESTIFY IN DEFENSE TODAY

Judge Refuses to Direct Acquittal as Prosecution Rests.

The trial of Gaston B. Means and Norman T. Whitaker, charged with the Lindbergh baby ransom hoax, may end today. Yesterday's session saw the Government rest its case and ended as Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue denied defense motions for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Should Means and Whitaker take the stand in their own defense the case will not be handed over to the jury until late today.

Both defense attorneys, J. William Tomlinson and Joseph Turco, indicated that a few witnesses would testify in their clients' behalf, but would not state who they were or the nature of their testimony.

State Rests Its Case.

Leo A. Rover, United States attorney, rested his case after the cross-examination of John Keith, an agent of the Bureau of Investigation. Keith was at New York when Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, from whom the defendants are alleged to have attempted to get $35,000, identified Whitaker as "the Fox."

Defense motions for a directed verdict were made on the grounds that the prosecution offered no evidence to show that there was a conspiracy committed by the defendants in the District of Columbia. It was overruled following Mr. Rover's answering argument.

The jury yesterday heard Means' story of the man with the red lantern to whom he gave Mrs. McLean's $100,000 on hearing a whispered "Number 11," told by the Rev. Francis J. Hurney, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church.

Long Examination of Hurney.

Father Hurney said that the money was to be given back to him by Means and he was to keep it until the Lindbergh child was produced and properly identified. He was cross-questioned for a long period by Tomlinson.

Mrs. McLean's jewels, which she attempted to pawn to secure the $35,000 in her final effort to obtain the return of the kidnaped child, were valued at $95,000 by William H. Wright, manager of Galt Bros., local jewelers.

Later the testimony of Miss Elisabeth Poe, of the editorial staff of The Washington Post, showed that through her actions the jewels were not pawned.

Miss Poe said that the jewels were turned over to her by Mrs. McLean to be pawned with George D. Horning. She testified that she turned them over to Albert W. Fox, Mrs. McLean's attorney. She said she took the jewels to Fox because she felt that "Mrs. McLean was in the hands of unscrupulous persons who were endangering her life and her property."

Mentions "Unscrupulous" Persons.

"Who were these unscrupulous persons," Whitaker's lawyers asked, and she replied, "Gaston B. Means and a person whom I knew as 'The Fox.'"

The prosecution failed in a try to get before the jury an alleged confession by Whitaker. The judge sustained the defense's objections to testimony of Mr. Keith in regard to alleged statements by Whitaker after his arrest that he had been with Means in conference with Mrs. McLean. The defense claimed this "confession" was not voluntary.

Nearly 30 witnesses, including Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, were brought before the jury by Mr. Rover, who began the presentation of the Government's case on Monday.

Department Store Founder And Secretary Murdered

Predecessor of Latter Was Also Mysteriously Slain in Same Office on New York's East Side Two Years Ago.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—As mysteriously as his former secretary was slain in the same office two years ago, Edward A. Ridley, 88-year-old department store founder, and his secretary, Lee Weinstein, 45, were slain today.

Their battered bodies—the skulls of both had been crushed in—were found in the modest little subcellar office Ridley used in an East Side garage he owned.

The mystery which shrouded motive and the identity of the killers in today's double slaying was as great as that which defied solution when Herman Moench, 60, was found dead in that same dingy office by Ridley back in 1931.

In neither case was there any indication of robbery.

A number of empty cartridges were found beside the scarcely recognizable bodies of Ridley and Weinstein.

The body of the man who once owned one of New York's largest department stores—on Grand street in the East Side—and whom neighbors long had termed a millionaire, was discovered just outside the office door.

Inside the office—with its single electric light and its single desk and chair—was the body of Weinstein.

No one in the neighborhood remembered having heard any shots.

White House to Ease War Disabled Slash; Bonus Camps Rising

Antired Wing Is Bivouacked at Capitol.

Police Order "Army" to Evacuate at 9 A. M. Today.

A small and motley band of grim-lipped bonus-seeking World War veterans built a large camp fire in the literal shadow of the United States Capitol last night and thus became the first serious problem presented District authorities as the ragged bonus clans again gather near the seat of government to seek the debts they think their country owes them.

The fire burned brightly on a soggy, debris-strewn vacant lot just south of the House Office Building and its glare was reflected in the windows of the offices of legislators. Around the blaze were gathered the cohorts of Harold Foulkrod and Mike Thomas, B. E. F. leaders of yore and today.

Foulkrod, John Newlin and several other B. E. F. leaders announced late last night that they had an appointment at the White House at 10 a. m. today. They will ask separate accommodations for their adherents, they said, as well as reiterating their demands for immediate payment of adjusted compensation.

300 Are at Fort Hunt.

Ten miles down the Potomac there were more camp fires and here 300 men—the vanguard of the veterans' convention sponsored by the Veterans' National liaison committee—got ready to bed down for the night with their stomachs full of Army chow, prepared by United States Infantry cooks, and await the coming of Saturday when their number is expected to be swollen to 10,000.

A forest of tents has arisen overnight in the camp on the river—Fort Hunt, Va., where World War days saw the whipping into shape of American soldiers. A company of Infantry from Fort George G. Meade, Md., has worked overtime building the canvas city for their arms-bearing predecessors.

There are comfortable cots and secure canvas roofs at the camp on the river. And this morning there will be a smoking hot breakfast and ci-

Herriot "Encouraged" By Roosevelt Talks

Paris, May 11 (A.P.).—Former Premier Edouard Herriot, writing in the newspaper Ere Nouvelle, declared today that he had received on the subject of war debts, as well as peace, in his conversations with President Roosevelt, "assurances, in my view, most encouraging."

He expressed delight with the decision of the French cabinet to continue negotiations with the Washington Government.

Third Suspect Caught In Holdup of Teacher

Claud Soper, the third suspect wanted by police in connection with the holdup and robbery of Margaret Hardy, Eastern High School teacher, of $760 several weeks ago has been arrested in Detroit, Mich. and will return here voluntarily, it was learned at headquarters last night.

Two other suspects in the case, Tom Conley and William Day, arrested shortly after the robbery, have already admitted their parts in the holdup which took place near North Capitol and P streets northeast just as Miss Hardy was entering a bank to deposit the money, part of a student fund.

65,000 in New York March of Protest

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—One of the greatest parades New York has ever seen, its participants officially estimated by police to number 65,000, marched enthusiastically but orderly from Madison Square to the Battery today to protest anti-Semitism in Germany.

The route was 3 miles, but so vast was the procession that units still were forming in line at Madison Square, the starting point, when the vanguard, headed by Gen. John F. O'Ryan, disbanded at the Battery and listened to speeches. The paraders bore all kinds of banners and effigies of Hitler, and one group formed into a collegiate cheering section, chanting: "Two, four, six, eight, who would we assassinate, Hitler, boo, boo, boo!"

Congress Member Hits Selection of Fort Hunt

(Associated Press.)

Representative Smith, of Alexandria, protested yesterday to Veterans Administrator Hines against "dumping" the veterans army "on Virginia" at Fort Hunt.

The protest was made at a conference in Gen. Hines' office. Shortly afterward, Smith wrote Gov. Pollard urging him "to protest as vigorously against the matter as I have" and to "take such means as may to you seem necessary to protect the life and property of the citizens of this section of Virginia in the emergency."

Smith said his action followed a deluge of complaints from officials of Fairfax County, which surrounds the fort, and Alexandria, through which persons traveling from Fort Hunt to Washington must pass. Smith said the protest apparently availed nothing.

Hines advised him, he said, it is planned to withdraw the company of troops now preparing Fort Hunt for the marchers and to police the post with six special deputy marshals.

HOUSE PLANS SLASH BILL PASSAGE TODAY

New Economy of More Than $165,000,000 Claimed for Measure.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

New economies ranging from $165,000,000 to $200,000,000 yesterday were claimed for far-reaching legislative provisions of the independent offices bill, as the House, working under rigid debate limitation, prepared to pass the administration measure today.

Estimates of savings, the first yet ventured in connection with the bill, were presented to the House by Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan, on information furnished by the Budget Bureau.

The savings are in addition to the more than $500,000,000 in economies already claimed for reduction in veterans' benefits ordered by the administration, and the 15 per cent Federal salary cut.

Meanwhile, Representative Buchanan informed members that the economy battle is not over; that the Government must slash yet more incisively or face bankruptcy.

"We should start a campaign to reduce the number of Federal jobs by 25 per cent," declared the appropriations chairman. "It can be done, in my opinion, without material injury to any of the indispensable functions."

Representative James J. Lanzetta (Democrat), New York, interrupted Buchanan to point out that industry has been asked to help tide over the unemployment emergency by creating more jobs. He said the Government not only would set a bad precedent by cutting employes further, but would further aggravate a bad situation.

Placing the minimum economies under the President's legislative rider

Three Lose Lives In Cuban Uprising

Havana, Cuba, May 10 (U.P.).—A rebel uprising in Camaguey Province, to the east, was reported suppressed today after a sharp clash between the rebels and a rural guard detail on duty in the disturbed area. Two guards and one rebel were reported killed.

The skirmish occurred when a band of rebels numbering 40 men clashed with the rural guard detachment under Capt. Leopoldo Ruiz Cantillo, near Ciego de Avila, Camaguey Province, dispatches said.

The engagement was hot but brief. The rebels fled.

Regulations to Be Reviewed for Fair Basis.

Reductions Are Found Deeper Than Was Purposed.

(Associated Press.)

The White House announced last night that economies to be effected through reduction of payments to veterans for service-connected disabilities would be reviewed with a view to making the cuts less severe.

A statement issued by Stephen T. Early, secretary to the President, said:

"As a result of conferences between the President, the national commander of the American Legion, Louis Johnson, and the Director of the Budget, the following conclusions have been reached:

"As a result of the application of the veterans' regulations it now seems that the cut in compensation of service-connected World War veterans with specific injuries has been deeper than originally intended. The regulations and schedules in this respect will, therefore, be reviewed so as to effect more equitable levels of payment. Careful study also will be made of the other regulations and their effects.

Regional Offices Saved.

"By reason of the burden incident to re-rating and in order that undue hardship will not be imposed upon veterans in their application for adjudication of their cases, regional offices of the Veterans Administration will not be closed as has been reported, except where it has been clearly demonstrated that regional facilities are not necessary.

"It is not contemplated that Government hospitals will be closed pending a careful, studious survey of the entire hospital situation. This, of necessity, will require considerable time.

"These conclusions are in line with the President's original statement that the regulations and schedules would be drafted so as to effect the most humane possible treatment of veterans purely disabled in war service."

Six-Hour Debate in House.

The White House statement was issued after six hours of debate in the House on the sharply reduced independent offices bill which carries approximately $460,000,000 less for

Actress Kidnaped In Car and Beaten

Los Angeles, May 10 (A.P.).—Nancy Torres, screen actress from Mexico City, told police today a story of having been kidnaped and severely beaten, escaping and then fainting on the doorstep of a mansion in the Pacific Palisades.

Hysterical and bleeding from the nose and mouth, Miss Torres was found on the doorstep of S. M. Schomann, Santa Monica business man. She was clad in an evening gown and fur coat.

Revived, the actress told of being abducted as she left a night club early today. She said her escort, an old friend, became involved in a fight at the night club.

"I tried to get in a taxicab and run away," Miss Torres told police. "Two men grabbed me and forced me into a big yellow roadster. The men beat me and left."

Miss Torres and companions were held up and robbed Monday night by two men, but she saved two diamond rings by placing them in her mouth, she told officers.

POLE'S TESTIMONY STARTLES SENATE

Probe of Federal Prosecution of Defaulting Bankers May Result.

(Associated Press.)

A broad Senate investigation of the manner in which the Government has prosecuted criminal charges against bank officials may result from testimony yesterday by John W. Pole, former Comtproller of the Currency, that defalcations by bank presidents are "common matters" in the comptroller's office.

Pole's testimony before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee investigating delay in prosecution of Joseph W. Harriman, New York banker, drew immediate demands from committee members for a list of such cases and their outcome.

The former comptroller took full responsibility for failure to notify the Justice Department at once of the bank examiner's report that Harriman had misappropriated funds of the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co., which he formerly headed.

Questioned by the committee, Mr. Pole said he had not made a personal investigation of the Harriman case, explaining:

"Defalcations are common matters in the comptroller's office, you know. It was only a routine matter."

"You mean defalcations by bank presidents are common?" Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana inquired.

"Yes," Pole replied with an even voice.

"To the amount of more than a million dollars?"

"No," the witness replied.

"If defalcations of bank presidents are common," Robinson exclaimed, "No wonder the people have no confidence in the banks."

"No wonder at all," Pole agreed.

Members of the committee expressed amazement at Pole's statement.

"They don't occur every day," the witness explained later. "But it is not an uncommon thing for the president of a bank to defalcate."

Dr. Ferris said yesterday that Mrs. Britton was Dr. Street's patient and that Dr. Street had asked him to accommodate her at his home because the sanitarium was crowded. He said that he had been working for Dr. Street for seven years and that he applied the salve as prescribed.

Dr. Street said that his belief that Mrs. Britton died from a "complicated cancer, and not from the treatment she received," remains unshaken.

The cost of stenographic services to report such hearings shall not be in excess of 25 cents per 100 words."

Another Association Assails Milk Prices

Another protest by Washington residents against milk prices was made last night when the American University Park Citizens Association adopted a motion which declared that regardless of higher sanitation costs, the price of milk is too high.

The association also protested against the "good will" and "going business" valuations asked by the two Washington gas companies in the proposed merger arrangement. It was pointed out that the companies had built up their "good will" through franchises and privileges granted them by residents of Washington. Hence it was contended that a cash valuation of their "good will" would be unjust to the residents.

Milwaukee, May 10 (A.P.).—Proposing to assist strikers and at the same time insure order, the State of Wisconsin will assume a virtual dictatorship over all milk marketing if the national farm holiday becomes effective Saturday, Leo P. Letters in Post Milk Series Consumers From All Sections of Metropolitan Area Commend Action Aimed at Reduction of Dairy Products Prices.

Letters of appreciation for The Post's articles on the high price of milk in the Capital continue to pour in. Some are as follows:

Work for Department of Agriculture Is Seen in Excessive Price of Milk to Consumers in Washington.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I have read with a great deal of interest The Post's articles on the high cost of milk and cream in Washington.

You are to be commended for these articles, and it has always been a mystery to me why some newspaper or the United States Department of Agriculture did not take up this subject years ago.

I believe your articles will bring down the price of milk and cream in Washington, and if these prices drop it will be due entirely, I am sure, to your articles. JAMES McCABE.

Newcomer Finds Sour Cream in Washington Costs 34 Cents a Pint Against 10 Cents in New York and Wants to Know Why.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am very much in accord with what you are doing in regard to exposing the situation here in Washington on the cream question.

I am a newcomer to Washington and have found food prices highly exorbitant. The other day I ordered a bottle of sour cream (one pint, to be exact) and when I heard the price of it, I was astonished. It cost 34 cents. In New York I can buy the best sour cream made by the Sheffield Co. for 10 cents. Certainly there is no heavier outlay connected in the making of the cream here in Washington than there is elsewhere. Perhaps you can enlighten me as to why prices are so high.

I am for you in your investigation of dairy product prices. Good luck!

Great Waste of Milk Bottles in National Capital Seen as Element Leading to High Cost of Milk.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: As a consumer of nearly one hundred quarts of milk per month, it is but natural that I am concerned with the price I must pay. However, in commending you for bringing the matter to public attention I want to warn against a mere insistence upon deflation, of which we have had a disastrous amount in virtually all lines.

If what we pay is properly based upon a higher compensation to the milk producers, then, perhaps, that is a constructive influence that no doubt has helped in avoiding the full, desolating effect of the depression upon this region. Of course, if your investigation shows that the milk distributors have been making excess profits and that the producers are being chiseled and the consumers paying the bill, that is something else.

So long as thousands of people eagerly pay 25 cents, 30 cents or more per quart for beer or other drinks, they, at least, should not yap at paying 13 cents for a quart of milk that is worth more as food, yes, and as refreshment.

I'm not sure that a way may not be found to reduce the cost of milk to the consumer without having to reduce wages paid by distributors (which would be harmful) and without reducing the amount paid to the producer (which, likewise, would be harmful).

In no other city have I ever seen such gross waste in the matter of milk bottles as in Washington. Our curbs are often lined with empties. Broken milk bottles litter streets. Parkways, triangles, circles, &c., are often littered with milk bottles. Milk may be taken from groceries and there is no deposit required, nor is it required to return the bottles. Boys use milk bottles as targets and wantonly break them against each other just to see the pieces fly.

I do not know what milk bottles cost. I do know that in some other cities the distributors guard against careless waste most zealously, and I assume that is one way in which they are enabled to reduce the price of milk. You might render a constructive service by getting the distributors to look into this waste item to ascertain if it may not provide the means for reducing the ultimate milk price without augmenting the depression by further deflating.

No, I have no interest in any milk company. I'm a consumer only. But I do know that cutting prices, then cutting wages, then cutting payments for raw materials, and so on, is destructive unless done with extreme caution. D. P. PORTERFIELD.

Despite Reduction in Price of Commodities and Wages Price of Ice Cream Found Today as High as It Has Ever Been.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: To say that I and my friends are much gratified over your recent articles appearing in The Washington Post would be the least. I mean your most timely articles about the milk situation in Washington.

I am anxious to see every one, whether manufacturer, producer or consumer, earn their proper and fair share of the profits to be made from our work. But it does seem to me that with wages and other commodity prices reduced as they are that milk should take its fair share of reduction, too. As I stated, I do not think the dairies should suffer any loss, nor, on the other hand, I do not want them to reduce the wages unduly of their employes in order to reduce the price of milk, but it seems to me that they (the dairies) are taking unfair advantage of the situation by not making the proper adjustment in their prices.

So much for the milk. I am encouraged by your interest to hope that you will do the same thing for the price of ice cream. It seems to me the retailers of ice cream have kept their prices up for a long time, and there doesn't seem to be any tendency whatever to reduce them. To wit: Only last Sunday I was out walking with a friend on upper Fourteenth street, and was somewhat shocked after ordering a dish of ice cream to see the check amount to 50 cents for two dishes (one for my friend, of course). That is the same price they charged years ago.

Probably with a reduction in milk we can hope for a similar reduction in the price of ice cream and sodas, and should that be effected I know that the ice cream dispensers will be rewarded by a larger number of sales. At least, I, for one, will be happy to buy more ice cream, even though I may have to worry about watching my diet later on.

Again, I think your articles are most opportune, and I hope they will have the desired effect.

Writer Calls for Comparison of Cost of Milk to Producers in 1913 and Present in different Parts of the United States.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am much interested in your discussion of the milk situation in this city, and your showing, by comparison, the prices in other leading cities, as presented in yesterday's and this morning's issue.

It would add much to the subject if you would obtain and publish a comparative statement of what the producers of milk in the different parts of the United States are now receiving and showing what they received in 1913.

It would be interesting to know the spread between the producer and the consumer.

"Single" Cream in Washington Costs Just as Much as "Double" Cream Brought Here From New York in Automobile, Writer Says.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congratulations for taking up cudgels against the high price of cream and milk in the District.

Our Chestnut Farms Dairy deliveryman declares the high price here is "because Washington folks will not return bottles."

A neighbor of mine has brought double cream from New York City by auto, whenever a trip is made, for family use for several years, paying there for "double" cream exactly what we pay here for "single" cream, and all is purchased from the same dairy company—National City Dairy.

Enlightenment Wanted on Price of Milk Farmers Get for Entire Supply, For Surplus and for Under Normal Quantity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In your milk investigation you seem to have failed to learn what the farmers get for their entire supply. Find out whether the $2.39 is paid for all. The usual practice is to offer that price for less than a farmer's normal supply and then a much smaller price for the balance, or "surplus milk," they call it. M. T. C.

Writer Expresses Astonishment that High Prices for Milk in Washington Has Remained so Long Quiescent Among People.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Congratulations on your exposure of the facts connected with the milk industry of Washington and vicinity. It has been a mystery to me that everybody, it seems, has kept so quiet and done nothing for so long during a depression when other food products have dropped so materially in price, while milk, the most essential of all, is nearly as high as when at its highest. Keep up this really worthwhile undertaking.

High Cost of Milk Seen as Great Injustice to Poor and to Farmer, who Receives so Small a Share of It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I sincerely congratulate you on the facts concerning milk prices in Washington. I am sure the broadcast over WOL will make the rich milk distributors sit up and take notice. It is a great injustice to the poor, who can not buy the milk at such prices, and to the farmer, who gets a mere pittance for his product. Keep up the good work. Sincerely yours, delivery. The butterfat content of this cream is equal to that sold by privately owned distributors and the bacteria count is just as low, if not lower.

THE REV. WILLIAM HARRIS.

U. S. FARM AT BELTSVILLE PROFITS FROM MILK SALES

Assume for purpose of comparison that the cost of feeds and labor, which constitutes the bulk of the production cost of milk, is the same in both the production of milk on the Agricultural Experiment Farm and on the privately owned dairy farm.

Then it is found that the Government can produce a pint of heavy cream, process it, and haul it to Washington and sell it to the Agriculture employes for 80 cents a pint, which is 40 cents less than the price at which the same quantity could be bought from a local distributor.

The dairy farmer, who supplies the local distributors, according to figures of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, is paid 15 cents a gallon for the milk, which is used in the production of cream. It takes 10 gallons of this milk to make 1 gallon of 40 per cent cream, for which the farmer receives $1.50.

On this basis, the dairy farmer receives about 18.7 cents a pint for the cream. When delivered to the distributor this cream is in bulk. The distributor pasteurizes, processes and bottles the cream, and if sold in pints to the consumers he receives 70 cents for the product. What the distributor gets for his processing, delivering, and his profit, is more than four times his original outlay.

One of The Post's subscribers calls attention to the fact that on a visit to New York she was able to buy a half pint of heavy cream for 18 cents, for which she is required to pay 35 cents in Washington, and pointed out that she was able to obtain heavy cream in New York for the same price that is exacted here for light cream.

Another article dealing with an interesting angle of the milk situation will appear tomorrow in The Post.

FARM AID MEASURE NEARS WHITE HOUSE

President Ready to Give His Approval to Bill Which Carries Inflation.

(Associated Press.)

The administration's farm relief-inflation bill ended a tempestuous six weeks' journey through Congress yesterday and President Roosevelt stood ready to sign it upon completion of the last routine formalities.

The measure vests unprecedented permissive powers in the President to expand the currency and in Secretary Wallace to lower the burdensome farm debt and raise basic commodity prices through marketing agreements, production control and a processing tax. Final action in the Senate yesterday saw the Norris-Simpson cost of production guarantee plan eliminated from the bill by a vote of 48 to 33.

Before making the bill ready for enrollment and signature by Speaker Rainey and Vice President Garner, the Senate approved a House resolution eliminating the word "basic" from the section relating to licensing of farm product distributors.

This was done to make the section conform with provisions authorizing marketing agreements and would permit the Secretary of Agriculture to go outside the seven commodities named in the bill, if he so desired, to help producers of other farm products through the marketing and licensing provisions.

The seven commodities specified by the measure are cotton, corn, wheat, hogs, rice, tobacco and dairy products.

Secretary Wallace already has selected George N. Peek, Moline, Ill., farm expert, and Prof. M. L. Wilson, of Montana, to assist him in administering the broad powers given him under the bill, and President Roosevelt only today nominated Eugene R. Black, of Atlanta, as governor of the Federal Reserve Board. He is expected to play an important part in directing the credit-currency expansion phases of the bill.

Governor Ends Martial Law in Iowa Counties

Des Moines, Iowa, May 10 (A.P.).—Warning that if "a fair and equitable adjustment is not made the farmer will no longer submit to confiscation of his property," Milo Reno, president of the National Farm Holiday Association, today perfected plans for the organization's strike of agriculture.

Meanwhile, Gov. Clyde L. Herring proclaimed the end of martial rule in two counties, centers of recent Iowa farm disturbances, and the restoration of civil government starting tomorrow. Withdrawal of national guardsmen on duty there since the maltreatment of Judge C. C. Bradley and other riots, was to continue until all were home.

As governor of the board, Black will have under his direct management the currency and credit expansion features of the inflation bill. A part of the expansion is expected to be the purchase of up to $2,000,000,000 of Government securities, putting a somewhat smaller sum of new money into circulation. Black was formerly a corporation lawyer in Atlanta, but became president of the Atlanta Trust Co. in 1923. He has been governor of the Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank since 1928.

Other nominations sent to the Senate yesterday by the President were Edward Caswell Shannon, to be major general in the Army Reserve; Walter L. Treadway, to be senior surgeon of the Public Health Service, and Lee C. Gelbert, to be a member of the Mississippi River Commission.

Swan Lake Dike Cut, Renewing Levee Feud

Belzoni, Miss., May 10 (A.P.).—The levee feud of the storm-riddled and water-logged delta was renewed today with the cutting of a Swan Lake dike and mobilization of National Guardsmen to prevent further vandalism in this little cotton kingdom along the Mississippi River.

An unidentified band shoveled a hole in the lake levee before dawn. The motive obviously was retaliation and preservation of other lands against flood waters that have choked the delta streams for several weeks. A gang of Negroes, including 50 convicts, were hurried to the shattered dike and were believed to have stemmed the tide by patching the hole.

SPECIAL NAVY BOARD TO SURVEY ECONOMY

Test of Efficiency and Saving Will Govern All of Changes Suggested.

(Associated Press.)

A special board of twelve was ordered by Secretary Swanson yesterday to survey the naval establishment and recommend changes in the interest of "increased efficiency and increased economy."

His own assistant, Henry L. Roosevelt, will represent Swanson as president of the board. Each of eleven bureaus will have a representative.

The Secretary directed the board to start work as soon as possible "to consider and make recommendations relative to reorganization of the Navy Department and the amalgamation of the line of the Navy, of the Marine Corps and of certain or all staff corps of the Navy."

Mr. Swanson told newspapermen that the test of efficiency and economy "will be put to every change."

Scope of Investigation.

"I believe in keeping existing forms and methods that we have had for years unless these two results are achieved," he said.

His order to the board further said: "Having in view an organization of the department that shall function efficiently and economically in time of peace and that shall lend itself readily to pass to a wartime basis, the board will give consideration to and study this matter of reorganization and will make recommendations thereon.

"The board will include in its study and recommendations:

"The total number of officers to constitute a resultant line and such staff corps as may not be recommended for amalgamation.

"The method and rate of accomplishing any attrition involved. The rate at which officers should be admitted to a new line and to such staff corps as may not be recommended for amalgamation. The need for specialists in the line to be trained and designated for special duties."

Marine Corps Status.

Immediately Secretary Swanson was asked whether the Marine Corps would cease to exist if amalgamated with the line.

"It would not cease to exist as long as Congress does not give me authority to amalgamate it," Swanson replied. "The things I want to do and have authority to do, I will do. Things I have not authority to do I will report to Congress."

Should Congress approve such an amalgamation, Swanson expressed the opinion "the bigger would swallow the smaller."

"The Marine Corps officers could still have the duties," he explained. "It might not disturb them or it might."

Swanson predicted that at least the Navy could "get rid of a lot of red tape." He said the board probably would start work today.

PIGEONS RELEASED AS ENVOYS DEPART

Bingham Will Not Don Knee Pants; Al Smith's Bird Loath to Take Off.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—After Alfred E. Smith and 48 young women had released baskets full of carrier pigeons in a ceremony on the decks of the S. S. Washington today, two new ambassadors sailed on the liner's maiden voyage to take up their posts abroad.

Robert Worth Bingham, newly appointed ambassador to the Court of St. James, in reply to questions, said "positively" he would not wear knee breeches at his presentation to the British king, as some of his predecessors have done.

Claude G. Bowers, on his way to take up his duties as ambassador to Spain, told of the relish with which he was looking forward to meeting that nation's scholars, journalists and statesmen.

The pigeons used in the farewell ceremony had been lent by the United States Army Signal Corps at Fort Monmouth, N. J. Each bird bore a message to the governor of one of the States. A college student from the State to which the bird was headed was chosen to release each pigeon.

Former Gov. Smith's bird strolled leisurely along the deck after he had opened the hamper, and it took considerable arm-waving and "shooing" on Smith's part to start it on its way to Washington, D. C.

A message of greeting to President Roosevelt was brought by carrier pigeons, owned by members of the National Capital Concourse Association, from Capt. George Fried, of the Washington. The first bird to arrive is owned by J. S. Turowski, of the American Racing Pigeons Union. The carrier required 5½ hours to make the flight, a distance of slightly more than 200 miles, against a head wind.

The message to the President is as follows:

"As the great United States Lines steamer Washington, the largest, fastest and finest liner ever built in America for the transatlantic trade, sails on her maiden voyage to English Channel ports and Hamburg, via Cobh, Ireland, at noon today, the thoughts of all here turn toward the city whose honored name she bears and to you, Mr. President, with the high hope and expectation that the Ship of State which you so ably command and this fine vessel of which I am privileged to be master may be favored always with bright skies, fair winds and favorable seas.

"CAPT. GEORGE FRIED,
"Commander, S. S. Washington."

Earlier in the day the President had sent his greeting to America's most famous sailor.

"Greetings and congratulations," his message read, "to a fine ship and a tried and able commander. All success to both of you."

the Veterans' Administration than was provided in the measure that was vetoed in the last Congress by President Hoover.

Carrying out the recommendations of Budget Director Douglas, the House Appropriations Committee reduced the outlay for the veterans from around $966,838,000 to about $506,838,000.

This carried sweeping reductions in pensions, hospitals and compensation along with reductions in military and naval insurance and for administrative purposes. The bill was attacked by House members led by Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, who said if the President "doesn't correct" inequities in the application of the reductions "Congress will."

"May Seem Too Drastic."

Even Representative Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia, in charge of the measure, said:

"I shall not undertake to say that these regulations promulgated by the administration have not been very drastic. In many instances they may seem to us to be too drastic."

The reductions were made possible under the Roosevelt economy act and form the major part of the administration's drive to balance the budget.

Under the bill administration, medical, hospital and domiciliary allotments were reduced by $34,000,000; pensions and compensation were reduced by $361,000,000; naval and military insurance, $11,000,000; new hospital facilities, $5,000,000; adjusted service certificate fund, $50,000,000.

SOUTHERN TORNADO TOLL CLIMBS TO 60

Kentucky and Tennessee Are Sufferers in Seventh Dixie Spring Storm.

Livingston, Tenn., May 10 (A.P.).—A tornado that swept down the Kentucky-Tennessee Cumberland Valley last midnight left a death toll of 60 and increased the South's spring storms' fatalities to more than 250.

Kentucky reported 38 killed in Monroe, Adair and Russell Counties, and Tennessee counted 20 dead in Overton County and 2 in Wilson County.

It was the seventh major tornado that has raked Dixie from east Texas to South Carolina since the middle of March. Several scores were injured in the latest storm and property damage was enormous, but unestimated.

The tornado struck first at Tompkinsville, Ky., in Monroe County, and then lashed at Adair and Russell Counties before unleashing its force on Beaty Swamps, in Overton County, Tenn., where it killed at least twenty persons.

Monroe and Adair Counties, Ky., across the Tennessee line and in south central section of the Blue Grass State were known to have at least 18 fatalities. Russell County, hard by, reported 20 killed.

The tornado flattened Beaty Swamps at midnight and twisted the settlement off its foundation. The little community was only a few miles from this county site, but so fierce was the storm's assault it was impossible for help to reach the stricken hamlet before dawn.

The dead and injured lay exposed to the horrors of the tornado from midnight to daybreak. A lashing rain turned the highways into bogs, and ambulances had to pick their way over wreckage-strewn roads. Rescue workers who reached there at dawn found a scene of utter desolation. Injured persons were trapped in debris. Bodies were scattered and mangled.

Bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Una Cole and their seven children were found about 200 yards from where their house had stood. The house was gone.

BONUS ARMY CAMPS IN CAPITOL SHADOW

garettes will be handed around. But this means naught now to the crew sleeping on the damp lot near the Capitol.

The leaders of the smaller group declare—and their motley men nod in assent—that the administration-approved convention with its tents and chow is a Communist-inspired affair and they will have nothing to do with it. Most of the group on the vacant lot last saw this city as the mushroom village erected by last year's bonus seekers on the flats of Anacostia east a red glare on the Capital as it expired in flames.

The District Police Department has told them that they must pack up their scant belongings and leave the lot this morning at 9 o'clock "or else." And their answer comes back that they won't join the camp on the river—they want the "immediate payment of the bonus, we aren't a bunch of Reds and we're not asking all the things they (the members of the camp on the river) are asking."

With the coming of morning, however, it is expected that the night of sleeping on the bare ground will have weakened the resistance of the small group and many believe that tomorrow night will see them ensconced at Fort Hunt.

Discharges Examined.

The leaders of the convention on the river have set up a registration tent at Sixth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest. Veterans Bureau officials are in attendance and as the men come in their army discharges are examined and they are shunted by Veterans Bureau bus to Fort Hunt.

Police have another worry, if what Harold Foulkrod and coleaders say is true. Foulkrod claims that "jungles" around the city are alive with bonus-seeking veterans who are also antagonistic to leaders of the convention that will begin Saturday.

If the small band near the Capitol is moved out, it was intimated that those in the retreats near the city will move in and take their place and that this will keep up indefinitely. Police had nothing official on this last night.

The Fort Hunt encampment was alive with activity yesterday. Approximately 500 canvas tents—with an eight-man sheltering capacity—were erected by dungareed doughboys. Sanitary accommodations were in process of construction and mess facilities for up to 10,000 men were being made ready.

Convention Site in Doubt.

The tents are being put on the drill ground of the wartime cantonment. On the parade ground of the 15-year vacated post, two large circus tents are being erected—presumably for the convention. Telephone men are busy stringing lines to connect the Capital and the convention site.

A problem that will confront administration officials the first thing next week is where the conventions are to be held. The veterans' national liaison committee, headed by Emmanuel Levine, admitted Communist, claims that at least part of the conclaves will be held in the Capital City.

Distinct frowns are understood to be the attitude of administration officials when the subject of transporting thousands of men 14 miles into Washington and back for daily sessions is suggested.

Officials admit that they can not see any objection to a large parade up Pennsylvania avenue by the veterans some time during their convention, and so this is an assured event of next week.

At midnight last night the 300—mainly from Chicago and led by Maurice Williams, of the Illinois metropolis—were asleep. They had ridden freight trains all the way here and were dog-tired.

No guards were placed over the men last night. They weren't needed, however, as snores seemed to be the only excitement in the camp.

Four armed sentries paced in the post, but they were on duty in and about the troops quartered there to prepare the camp.

The liaison committee and the insurgent veterans both predicted large increases today in their forces here.

ROOSEVELT AGAINST IMPORT FARM TAX

President Thinks U.S. Should Practice Tariff Truce as Well as Preach.

(Associated Press.)

Keeping to the spirit of his proposed world tariff truce, President Roosevelt believes the United States should forgo for the present the levying of an import tax on major agricultural products as provided in the new farm relief bill.

This was made plain yesterday at the White House, where it was also said the President did not believe it would be necessary to apply the import taxes before June 12, when the truce would expire.

America's first move at the world economic conference meeting on that date, it was made clear, will be to propose a new tariff truce to last as long as the conference itself.

The President's stand against using the power in the farm bill to increase the tariff while the preliminary truce is on ended considerable uncertainty.

Import taxes under the bill would be levied in an amount equal to the processing taxes provided on domestic wheat, cotton, corn, hogs, rice, tobacco and dairy products. The processing tax is intended to give the farmer a greater return for his produce.

The President's attitude was seen as indicating that the United States will "lean over backward" in avoiding any increase in the barriers to world trade.

Late yesterday the President again conferred at the White House with Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German representative here for the international economic conversations.

At the State Department at the same time, T. V. Soong, Chinese finance minister, with his aids, conferred with Dr. Stanley K. Hornbeck.

Earlier Secretary Hull was host at luncheon to a distinguished gathering including the picked spokesmen of the three nations invited to confer here who are now in the city—Schacht, Soong and Alberto J. Pani, Mexican secretary of State, who arrived yesterday morning.

In the House yesterday Representative Britten (Republican), Illinois, said influential Democrats in Congress had in their pockets the text of a message to Congress on the subject. If this was the case, he argued, it was useless to appropriate for the Tariff Commission.

PRESIDENT MERGES TRADE BOOST PLANS

should be sustained by a new schedule of special taxes to provide adequate additional revenues for interest and a reasonable amortization fund.

Planning Committee.

The details of the two-way plan are to be worked out by a special committee headed by Prof. John Dickinson, Assitsant Secretary of Commerce, and Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture. Other members of the committee are Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Senators Walsh, of Massachusetts, and Wagner, of New York; Hugh R. Johnson, sometime member of the War Industries Board, and Donald R. Richberg, attorney for the railroad labor unions.

The President asked this group to iron out the differences between the many stabilization plans which have been submitted.

He indicated a wish to submit the matter to Congress in final form at an early date, perhaps this week. It appeared doubtful last night, however, whether the committee could bring out a satisfactory bill within 10 days. There is a wide divergence of opinion as to the degree of Governmental control which should be attempted. Grave constitutional questions also are presented, for the authority of the Federal Government over private business is sharply limited to those matters which fall within the scope of the interstate commerce clause.

Amortization Taxes.

No consideration has been given as yet to details of the special amortization taxes. The reported agreement upon the taxation principle, however, was hailed with satisfaction by those who feared the public works projects might be financed with the newly authorized "greenback" currency.

One of the most perplexing legal snarls confronting the drafting committee relates to measures for enforcing the proposed fair-trade practices, which, it is hoped, will provide the groundwork for industrial agreements looking to generally higher wage scales and living standards.

If the bill is to authorize the Federal Government to enforce such agreements, a tremendous new burden will be placed upon the Department of Justice and the courts. Every price and wage agreement promulgated within the individual industries would be enforced—as regards the recalcitrant units of the industry—by the National Government.

Another plan under consideration would permit each industry to do its own enforcing through joint action. But as yet no thought has been given to a system of penalties to be applied to those units which violate the trade agreements.

The revolt against relaxation of the antitrust laws found a new spokesman in the House yesterday in Representative Wright Patman, of Texas.

"If we do anything to encourage mergers and combinations, or do anything to weaken our antitrust laws, we will be violating our 1932 platform pledge," he said.

Following his participation in the White House conference, Representative Byrns, of Tennessee, the Democratic floor leader, acknowledged the Perkins-Black bill to be a dead letter.

Miss Perkins Alters Idea.

A few hours earlier Secretary Perkins, in a letter to Chairman Connery of the House Labor Committee, publicly renounced her original plan for direct Government control of industry through the Department of Labor.

"While, the issuing of licenses to plants has been done as a war measure, with its purposes to control manufacturing of materials for the armed forces of the Nation, its operation in peace times, even in times of extreme economic distress, is bound to be experimental, cautious and slow," Secretary Perkins wrote. "The issuing of licenses to direct industrial activity and the suspension of the antitrust laws may be necessary, but I believe it should be incorporated in another bill."

Secretary Perkins urged enactment of a separate bill establishing national minimum wage standards.

JAPANESE AIRMAN FIRES ON GARRISON

Scout Ship Flies Over Peiping, Then Returns to Front in Lwan River Area.

Peiping (Thursday), May 11 (U.P.).—A Japanese army airplane flew over Peiping on a reconnoitering flight today. No bombings were reported.

Latest reports on the Japanese drive in north China said Japanese troops were advancing westward on the Shanhaikwan-Peiping highway and had captured Yungping, 115 miles east of here.

The airplane directed machine gun fire at a detachment of the Peiping garrison before flying off in the direction of the battle front between Miyunhsien and Nantienmen. There were no casualties.

Tokyo, May 10 (A.P.).—The Japanese war machine, flinging its strength successfully against several strategic Lwan River points in North China today, approached closer to the Tientsin-Peiping international treaty area.

Japanese dispatches from the front, where heavy fighting has occurred for more than a month, said the Japanese army controlled the Lwan, which forms a boundary of a triangle, south of the Great Wall, that the Japanese want designated as a buffer zone for the lately conquered Jehol Province.

The Japanese previously had set the Lwan as the limit of their offensive from the coast. (A dispatch from Peiping said that the 2,500 American residents of the international area were not alarmed as the hostilities neared Peiping and Tientsin and that Japanese planes bombed Miyun, only 35 miles north of Peiping).

China Sides With Reds Over Railway Dispute

Moscow, May 10 (A.P.).—The Chinese Nationalist government cast its lot with Russia today in asserting its rights to a part of the Chinese Eastern Railway.

In a memorandum to the Soviet foreign affairs commissariat the Nanking government claimed that the 1924 Peiping-Mukden treaties placed the line under the joint management of Russia and China and that the Japanese occupation of Manchuria, through which the C. E. R. runs, does not alter its status.

Mrs. Roosevelt Visits Jersey City Hospital

Jersey City, N. J., May 10 (A.P.).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt today visited the Margaret Hague Maternity Hospital, inspected it and heard Bishop Coadjutor Benjamin Washburn, of the Newark Episcopal Diocese, dedicate the Eleanor Roosevelt Nursery. The nursery was named in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt. The hospital, which forms part of the medical center in Jersey City, was named for Mayor Frank Hague's mother.

Mrs. Roosevelt's visit was brief and was marked by absence of formality at her request. She arrived at the institution in her own automobile, which she was driving from New York to Washington.

PASSAGE OF NEW SLASH BILL IS PLANNED BY HOUSE TODAY

at $165,000,000, Representative Buchanan said the outstanding items making up this total include $20,000,000 from furloughs and reduction of rural carrier allowances in the Postoffice Department; $100,000,000 from increased charges for Government services; $9,500,000 from half-pay furloughs in the military services; $30,000,000 from the 30-year retirement provision, and $4,500,000 from Presidential power to cancel transportation contracts.

Representative Buchanan took issue with only one provision in the rider—the apportionment clause which would force employes out of the service from States over their quota. Pointing out that this operates against efficiency, he illustrated his argument graphically with a huge chart of civil service tables.

Taking the other side of the controversy, Representative William W. Hastings (Democrat), of Oklahoma, which lacks 30 per cent of its quota of Federal workers, contended that not only appointments but dismissals as well should be ordered on a State quota basis, as proposed in the bill.

"Every member of this House has in his district constituents who ought to be given an opportunity to serve their Government and study its operation in Washington," he said.

He introduced in the record a tabulation of employe totals by States and an article from The Post explaining how the so-called quota apportionment clause would hit the District and four overquota States.

Representative Clifton A. Woodrum (Democrat), Virginia, in charge of the independent offices bill, took the floor early in the afternoon to outline drastic appropriation slashes in the $535,000,000 measure.

Later, Representative John Taber (Republican), New York, took the floor to contend the appropriation cuts do not go far enough. He said he thought further reductions could be made in funds allotted the Federal Power Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Service Commission, an other bureaus.

NAVY BOARD DELVES INTO FATAL BLAST

An explosion at the Navy proving grounds, Dahlgren, Va., late Tuesday, which took the life of an aviation metalsmith and brought critical injuries to a warrant officer, was being investigated yesterday by a naval board of inquiry.

Thomas Allen Daniels, 26, of Laurel, Miss., a metalsmith, first class, specializing in aviation work, was instantly killed, and his superior officer, Chief Aviation Pilot Garland Long Williams, 33, of Rotan, Tex., was perhaps fatally injured when an 8-inch projectile exploded in a seaplane hangar.

Daniels was welding a bracket on the projectile, which was to be used as an anchor for small boats. The shell had been discarded after use in proof firing through armored plates.

The projectile apparently had not been exploded in the proof firing and Daniels was preparing it for use as anchor with a welding torch. The heat evidently caused detonation.

COURT INVALIDATES ILLINOIS SALES TAX

Springfield, Ill., May 10 (A.P.).—The Illinois three per cent sales tax law was held unconstitutional today and means of raising funds for unemployment relief again became a pressing legislative issue.

A unanimous opinion of the State supreme court, returned during its vacation, held inoperative the emergency act which Gov. Henry Horner forced through the legislature to provide an estimated $60,000,000 annually for relief of the unemployed and destitute at Chicago and other metropolitan centers.

Since April 1 retailers have, in most cases, charged their customers an extra three per cent to meet the tax.

Upholding an injunction, the court's decision prevents the Horner administration from making its first collection of sales tax revenue next Monday.

TAX LIMIT IGNORED BY 170 BEER SELLERS

The anticipated last-minute rush on the part of beer dealers to pay the $1 a barrel District tax failed to materialize yesterday and at the close of business 170 had failed to file returns at the tax assessor's office. Unless these 170 get their reports in the mail in time to get a May 10 postmark, their licenses will be revoked today.

Only 173 filed returns yesterday, reporting April sales of 1,818 barrels of beer. This brought the total dealers reporting to 1,373 and the tax receipts to $18,781.

Not only will the dealers who fail to pay the tax lose their temporary permits, but they will also be prosecuted for failure to pay the tax on April sales unless they turn over the money to the tax collector at once, District officials said.

Police probably will be sent to notify all delinquent dealers today that their licenses have been revoked.

About Minimum Maryland Speed Fine Sends Woman to Jail.

Mrs. Ann Wachsman, of West Palm Beach, Fla., learned yesterday that the Maryland highway laws are drastic, but that sometimes Maryland judges are sympathetic and helpful to strangers.

In the police court at Hyattsville, Md., she readily pleaded guilty to speeding, but to her surprise the minimum fine is $25. She and her husband could produce only $7.

Since she had pleaded guilty to the charge, Judge J. Chew Sheriff said he could do nothing but send her to jail. The husband asked the judge to send him to jail instead, but that could not be legally done.

So Judge Sheriff sentenced the woman to one day in the Marlboro Jail, in the best quarters that could be made available.

ECONOMIC PARLEY TO CONVENE TODAY

Monroe Work, of Tuskegee, will discuss "Occupational Trends of the Negro, 1890-1930." Similar trends in New York will be discussed by Franklin J. Keller, director, National Occupational Conference. The subject will be discussed by P. K. Whelpton, of the Scripps Foundation for Research in Population Problems, and by Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the Department of Labor.

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard University, will preside at the 2 p. m. session, which will discuss the relation of the Negro to unemployment.

Alfred K. Stern, of the Rosenwald Foundation, will preside tonight.

We found a bench and sat down..

TWO blocks down the street is a park. It has trees and grass, and a statue in the middle. A big, fat building at one end makes the park look lop-sided.

WE had a whole half hour to ourselves the other day, so we walked over to the park. We found a bench and sat down. The sun covered us from head to foot. We lit a cigarette, and we compared the puff of smoke with the clouds that shuffled across the sky over our head.

IT was quiet, and warm, in the park that afternoon. If you closed your eyes, and draped yourself across the bench, as we did, you could imagine yourself in the country some place. A young mother pushed a carriage up the cement walk. We started making faces at the baby. That's us, a baby's man. He wouldn't give us a tumble. Dressed in his didie (and hardly anything else) he kicked up his feet, made passes with his hands, and amused himself generally by making funny little noises.

THAT scene started us to thinking. Here's a baby and his didie. We began to count up the number of people it took to make that didie. First, somebody had to plant the cotton, and then somebody had to pick it. Then it had to be shipped to the mill. Next, it was spun into threads, and then woven into a cloth, and then cut to size, and then . . . But by that time we were exhausted. The moral (if there must be one) is that it takes a lot of people to make one didie. And just think how many, many people could be put back to work if more didies, and more chairs, and more shirts were bought.

PRETTY soon a boy came along. He was selling ice cream. You know, it's the kind that comes in a bar, covered with chocolate. We bought a bar. "How's business?" we asked the boy. "Not bad," he replied, "but you'd better buy now, it might cost you more later on." That was a new slant. "What do you mean by that?" we wanted to know. "Inflation—prices going up; sugar, cream chocolate rising. Don't you read the papers? How about some more ice cream?" That little boy knew what he was talking about. And while we couldn't very well stock up on ice cream, we knew that it would be a good idea if people did lay in many of the things they need now, because just as sure as today is Thursday the rise is coming . . . in fact, it's already here.

WE don't expect to get any business out of this advertisement. We are publishing it simply because sitting in the park for half an hour gave us something to think about. Do you catch on?

P. S. If we must mix business with reverie, we suggest opening a charge account to take advantage of the pre-inflation prices that you'll find in every department on every floor of our store.

PARAGUAY DECLARES WARFARE ON BOLIVIA AFTER YEAR'S FIGHT

of territory away from us without a judgment."

When it was pointed out to the Minister that his country was a signatory of the Kellogg Pact, which made peaceful settlement of all disputes without recourse to war mandatory on Paraguay, he said:

"There is a higher law than international treaties. There is the natural right of people to defend themselves. Bolivia has of late been accelerating its attacks against my people. Airplane attacks have redoubled. Yesterday they attacked a Mennonite settlement—the Mennonites are peaceful people, you know, and today they have again bombed a hospital at Campo Esperanza, killing six and wounding sixteen."

Declaration of war was in effect a shrewd move designed to starve the Bolivians out of the Chaco, since their line of communications with Bolivia is so tenuous and so fraught with danger that they are forced to rely on whatever supplies they can secure from Argentina. This source will now automatically become sealed in the interests of international law.

If the Stimson interpretation of the Kellogg-Briand pact is followed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, which seems remote at the present time, the United States will be forced to sacrifice the doctrine of neutrality in favor of a common embargo against the country pronounced aggressor by the other powers.

At present, however, the United States will maintain a policy of strict neutrality in accordance with principles of international law. The last occasion on which the United States invoked the pact of Paris was in the dangerous situation created by the Leticia incident between Colombia and Peru. The Chaco incident is not exactly analogous; because while the Leticia disputants were both signatores of the Pact of Paris, Bolivia is not. It is a point to be clarified whether a country not signatory to an international agreement can be held liable for infractions of such an agreement.

The absence of both Argentina and Chile from the preliminary peacemaking negotiations here within the last few days is believed to have caused a stiffening of the Paraguayan attitude and to have activated the declaration of hostilities. A sympathetic attitude on the part of Argentina and Chile toward Paraguay would in all probability close their borders to Bolivia and bring about capitulation of the Bolivian forces by starvation.

La Paz, Bolivia, May 10 (U.P.).—News that Paraguay had declared a state of war with Bolivia was received calmly by the public today. At the foreign office it was stated that Bolivia would protest the declaration at the League of Nations and would request that Paraguay be classed as an aggressor nation.

Geneva, May 10 (U.P.).—Paraguay's declaration of war against Bolivia, League of Nations officials believed tonight, would simplify the league's active interference in the South American dispute and possibly hasten the imposition of an arms embargo against both countries.

This is the league's first "official" war since its foundation. As soon as the league receives Paraguay's reasons for its action, the Chaco committee, composed of delegates from Ireland, Spain and Guatemala, is expected to convoke a special meeting of the council.

Santiago, Chile, May 10 (U.P.).—Chile will declare its neutrality now that a state of war exists between Bolivia and Paraguay, but will not abandon its present position regarding the transit of arms through Chilean ports to Bolivia, it was said in foreign office circles tonight.

J. M. SHOEMAKER DIES.

J. M. Shoemaker, 64, examiner in the Civil Service Commission and formerly district manager in the Minneapolis office of the commission, died yesterday at his home, 4105 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Born in Carlton, Ohio, Mr. Shoemaker has been in the Federal service since 1900. Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Josephine D. Shoemaker and two sons, David W. Shoemaker and Fred J. Shoemaker, St. Paul, Minn. Burial will be in Carlton, Saturday.

MRS. WEIDENHAMER DIES.

Mrs. Stella Heilman Weidenhamer, 69, of 4606 Sixteenth street northwest, wife of Charles E. Weidenhamer, died yesterday at her home following a brief illness.

Surviving are her husband, two sons, John Paul Weidenhamer, of Harrisburg, Pa., and Norman Heilman Weidenhamer, and two daughters, Mrs. Rudolph K. Lake and Mrs. Amos T. Pagter, all of Long View, Wash. Mr. and Mrs. Weidenhamer moved here in 1917. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

GERMANS SET FIRE TO LIBERAL BOOKS

Berlin, May 10 (A.P.).—Books of Helen Keller, Franz Boas and Jack London, as well as hundreds of German authors, went up in smoke throughout Germany tonight.

University young men and women, pronouncing judgment on world literature considered as contravening German spirit, started huge bonfires of the volumes shortly before midnight.

Dr. Joseph Goebbels, minister of public enlightenment and propaganda, pronounced the government's blessings and declared, "The period of Jewish intellectualism now has ended."

The weird glow illuminated Opera Square opposite Berlin University as the students, garbed in the picturesque costumes of their fraternities, the Nazi brown or the steel helmet gray, threw a thousand torches on the pyre, then seized the books from trucks and hurled them into the blaze amid cheers.

IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT OF RATE REDUCTIONS

It is now generally believed that the downward spiral in business has been arrested. Along with the gradual rise in commodity prices, industry has already started to speed up and it is broadly anticipated that its pace will soon be accelerated.

Advertising has always proved to be Industry's most dependable salesman; indeed, its star salesman. As President Roosevelt has not only reawakened faith throughout the land but actually started up the wheels of industry, now is the time to put this star salesman - advertising - back to work again. Let him be on the job when your public swings into the buying mood. Utilize this short cut to the revival of your business.

At the precise moment when all the world looks for rising prices we announce a substantial reduction in advertising rates in all of the Condé Nast Publications.

At the very time when our magazines have achieved heights of editorial excellence never before reached in their distinguished history, we make this important announcement.

This move is prompted by a desire to encourage the advertisers of yesterday to make a fresh bow to their buying public. The important rate reductions in effect with the July issues are our contribution.

Even at the old rates the Condé Nast Publications offered the most economical approach to the quality market. Now the path is made still easier for you. While we guarantee the reduced rates for 6 months only, advertising may be booked at these rates for one year.

Our circulation bases remain the same as before.

DISARM FIRST.

In his radio address on Sunday evening President Roosevelt mentioned disarmament as one of the primary objectives in his conversations with spokesmen of other governments. There is good reason for believing that he is advising debtor governments that an agreement upon disarmament is very desirable if not indispensable as an inducement for revision of the debts.

If the President could assure Congress that substantial reductions in armaments had been agreed upon, it seems probable that he would have no difficulty in obtaining authority to negotiate debt revisions.

Prime Minister MacDonald suggests that debt revision is necessary if the economic conference is to succeed. He does not lay equal stress upon the necessity of armament revision; but it is known that he is laboring diligently to bring about an agreement looking to reduction of armaments which can be employed for attack. Ambassador Davis is working to the same end.

The idea that debt revision should be discussed in London concurrently with economic negotiations, but by a separate body, is not tenable. The United States has always refused to enter a round-table conference with debtors. President Roosevelt adheres to the rule that each debtor shall state his case separately to the United States. Hence there can be no debt conference in London. The debtors have an agreement to confer and pursue a common policy, but this agreement includes only themselves. Each must deal separately with the United States, and if they have not previously made progress toward an arms agreement they will not have a very strong case in the eyes of the American people.

For every plea that the debts are making economic adjustments difficult, the United States can bring a stronger declaration that refusal to reduce armaments is a still greater obstacle. The nations are paying out vastly more for unnecessary armaments than they are paying on their debts; and refusal to agree upon armaments unsettles the nations and prevents them from making mutual economic concessions, because they are in fear of war.

In spite of the efforts of certain foreign governments to concentrate attention upon the economic conference and to divert attention from armaments, the stubborn fact remains that the fear and insecurity of nations is the cause of extravagant expenditures, excessive taxation, and economic instability. They can not expect to be free to moderate their trade arrangements and square away for prosperity so long as they are crushed down by arms expenditures and are fearful of attack. The world economic derangement, in short, is fundamentally due to political factors.

The failure of the world economic conference of 1927 may be traced directly to the refusal of the nations to make themselves secure and solvent by mutual agreement for reduction of armaments.

DEFAULTED FOREIGN BONDS.

Senator Johnson made a notable contribution to the act for control of securities before it was approved by the Senate. His amendment provides for the establishment of a corporation to represent holders of defaulted foreign securities. It would function under control of a board appointed by the Federal Trade Commission. Holders of foreign bonds in default would be encouraged to turn over their securities to the corporation, and when that body acquired 60 per cent of any outstanding issue, it could make agreements that would become binding upon the holders of all such bonds.

Clothed with this authority the corporation could go forward in an orderly attempt to collect vast sums that are due to American citizens from foreign governments, municipalities and private companies. Loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would be made to get this work under way, but it would ultimately be financed by small assessments against bondholders.

The need for such a cooperative effort to collect the interest and principal of defaulted foreign bonds has long been recognized. Foreign issues that are in default amount to several billion dollars. The American Government is not, of course, responsible for any of these bonds. They were purchased by the American people during the speculative spree that ended in 1929. But the Government can render valuable assistance by sponsoring a cooperative movement to deal with the foreign debtors.

By this means some arrangements for liquidation of these bonds may be devised. American bondholders may greatly strengthen their position by dealing collectively with the defaulting governments and municipalities.

No doubt the House will concur in this amendment and it probably will be acceptable to the President.

INDUSTRIAL COOPERATION.

President Roosevelt's plan to encourage industrial cooperation seems to have been widely misinterpreted. A group of representatives is threatening to fight this scheme on the assumption that it means destruction of the antitrust laws. In spite of the President's clear explanation of his viewpoint in his radio address, this attitude toward the proposed measure seems to have gained strength.

It is very clear that Mr. Roosevelt has no intention of asking for repeal or even suspension of the antitrust laws. The administration's plan, as it has been advanced by John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and senators who are working on the text of the bill, proposes merely to allow industrial associations to suspend competition of a destructive nature while the country is trying to work out of its economic dilemma.

In this period of extreme hardships industrial concerns are tempted to resort to unfair methods to save themselves from annihilation. One factory, for example, may slash wages to a starvation level so that it may undersell its competitors. President Roosevelt would allow these competing units to enter an agreement upon minimum wages, thus making certain that a few plants would not take advantage of the emergency by resorting to destructive practices. Of course, all plants within the trade group would still be competing with one another, but that competition would be on a sound basis. No unfair advantages could be gained by indulgence in anti-social practices. If such agreements within trade organizations remain under Government supervision, it is difficult to see where any concession to monopoly is made.

Some of the President's advisers would have the trade associations fix prices as well as hours of work, minimum wages, &c. Mr. Dickinson and other students of the subject maintain, however, that "there is no need for embarking upon the dangerous and uncertain practice of pegging prices." Attempts to fix prices throughout an industry lead to adulteration of products, to inferior workmanship and other means of unfair competition. If wages and production can be kept under group control, there would seem to be no need for price-fixing experiments.

Another important question arises with respect to administration of the proposed law. It seems to be definitely settled that the Government will leave to each industry the task of devising means to solve its own problems. But who will enforce the decisions arrived at by trade associations under Federal supervision? Presumably this task will also be entrusted to the trade associations or to boards representing each industry. The Government might become involved in numerous difficulties in trying to prosecute recalcitrant industries that may refuse to abide by the decisions of the groups in which they function. Trade associations have means of their own for bringing non-cooperating plants into line. If they are allowed to apply economic pressure or publicity to recalcitrant firms, there may be no need for the Government to take over this responsibility.

The objective of the administration seems to be voluntary cooperation among industrial concerns of a similar type, with a view to ending that form of competition which mitigates against the public welfare, while preserving competition that arises from efficiency, business management and the quality of products. If this objective is properly carried out in the measure that is being drafted, it will deserve support. Apparently it goes little further than did the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Appalachian coal case.

UNFAIR TO CIVIL SERVICE.

Federal employes have come to believe that they are being harassed beyond reason, and there is a great deal of justification for this viewpoint. Hardly a week passes without the introduction of some new scheme to reduce their compensation or render their jobs more insecure. The tendency to superimpose one hardship after another upon faithful employes and then threaten large numbers with outright dismissal for arbitrary reasons has had a most demoralizing effect upon the Government service.

When President Roosevelt made a 15 per cent cut in salaries Government workers made no protest. They were willing to cooperate in the essential task of balancing the budget. Reorganization of the executive departments and independent agencies is imposing severe handicaps upon thousands of employes. Many will lose their jobs and others will have their incomes cruelly reduced by administrative furloughs. There has not been much murmuring about these conditions, but when the Budget Bureau seeks to upset the merit system and deprive thousands of their jobs for purely arbitrary reasons a storm of protest is inevitable.

The most recent threat against civil service employes is the clause in the independent offices appropriation bill instructing the Civil Service Commission to give due regard to State quotas in making reductions in personnel. This provision is based on the theory that jobs are allotted by State quotas and that, therefore, dismissals should be made according to quotas also. The facts are, however, that the apportionment of jobs among the States plays a very minor role in the selection of Government workers. In normal times distant States do not fill their quotas for the simple reason that people will not travel to Washington to take low-salaried Government positions. The commission has to draw heavily upon applicants in the vicinity of Washington to fill vacancies. Furthermore, thousands of employes entered the Government service during the war without civil service examinations and were later "covered" into the service. It is plainly unjust to suggest now that these employes should be dismissed on the basis of State quotas without regard for efficiency ratings.

The principle involved in this proposed change is essentially the same as that in the 30-year retirement provision. It is an attempt to separate efficient Government workers from the service under arbitrary rules. If these two provisions should become law, the merit system would be seriously distorted. Men and women who serve the Government on an entirely nonpolitical basis are entitled to more consideration than is manifested in these reversions to the spoils system.

COLUMBIA'S INNOVATION.

Six years ago Columbia University startled the academic world by dropping Latin and Greek as requisites for the Bachelor of Arts degree. Now Dean Hawkes announces a new ruling of the faculty that is almost as revolutionary, but certainly containing the element of sound common sense. This authority will permit the college committee on instruction to waive, in individual cases, one or more of the courses prescribed for the specific degree "when such modification will promote the best educational interests of the student."

While this procedure is characterized as unique in American collegiate administration, Dean Hawkes justifies it on the ground that there are a considerable number of individuals who are caught in the academic machinery and who are more harmed than helped by a strict adherence to the requirements for the degree. The discretion given the committee, he explains, will by no means imply that any student who does not care to fulfill a given requirement may automatically be excused from it. The faculty expects that the new ruling will be administered in a conservative manner.

In explanation of the need for the innovation it is said that many men who have looked forward to medicine, to the four-year course in engineering, to the School of Journalism, or the School of Business, may be forced to change their plans late in their college careers. In such cases a strict adherence to the regular requirements may cost a student a year's effort without compensating return. Dean Hawkes says that it sometimes happens that "after a student has made strenuous and faithful efforts to pass a certain prescribed course it turns out that his mind does not and can not be made to run in that direction, and if a student with a demonstrated blind spot for one particular subject shows more than usual capacity in other fields there is reason to take such a case under consideration."

The Columbia faculty realize that it will take some time to determine the fairest and most useful methods of applying the new ruling, but their expectation of beneficial results appears to be enthusiastically seconded by the student body. The Spectator, student daily, hails the faculty decree as one that will revitalize the educational system of the college.

Industry should bear in mind that Uncle Sam wants no wicked partners.

MR. WALLACE'S STAND

From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Secretary Wallace yesterday made two statements in his address here which set forth the philosophy and theories behind the farm bill better than any one else has yet put them. Of the bill itself, he said:

> I entertain no illusions about the new bill. A bill is mere machinery. The men who operate it, the men who come under its provisions and its consequences, have to endow it with a spirit before it can achieve socially desirable results.

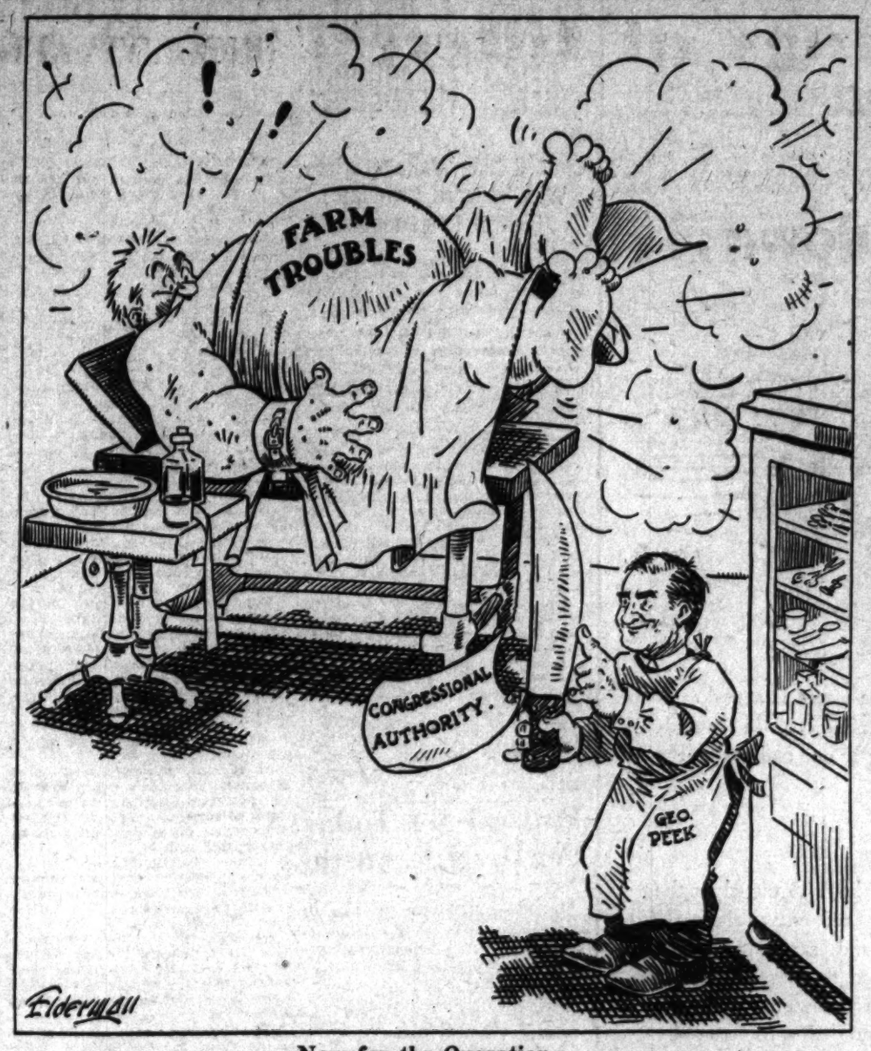
There is the philosophy behind such relief as is now being attempted, the frank admission that the human equation can make or break it. It is true not alone of the farm bill but of the inflation provisions it carries as an amendment, of the industrial help planned, of the credit and mortgage programs and of every item in the recovery program.

Of the theory behind the farm bill in relation to the whole program, Mr. Wallace also said:

> I agree that there must be an increase in consumer purchasing power if the farm bill is to be a complete success. It is important that the farm bill be accompanied by an extensive public works program, or a revival of private industry, or both.

This view shifts the emphasis which was placed six weeks ago when the farm bill was started on its way. At that time there were serious questions about the ability of stricken industrial workers to pay the tax required to lift farm prices and start industry's wheels turning again. This new interpretation puts the farm bill in its proper place and admits that the recovery cycle must start with the consumer rather than the producer.

There remain tremendous difficulties in putting the farm bill's crop-reduction provisions into effect, many of them grown out of the excessive delay in Congress. Of these, Mr. Wallace said little. Yet these provisions are essential for any permanent relief or price stability. How they will be worked out is not yet clear. But Mr. Wallace makes one point plain. Into their solution will go sincerity and idealism of unchallenged quality.



Now for the Operation.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

GROWTH.

By the choice we make
Of the road to take,
By the things that we do or say;
By our yes or no
To the cry, "Let's go!"
We are fashioned from day to day.

By our will to bear
What comes of care,
By our spirit in work or play,
By the little tasks
Which life always asks
We are fashioned from day to day.

We are known to men
By the notes we pen
Of comfort and help and cheer,
And the minutes we spend
To play the friend
To one who needs friendship here.

Oh, it isn't by fate
That men grow great,
But it's choosing which road to fare;
It's seeking what's right
By day and by night,
And sharing another's care.

Brother Must Fight Against Brother When the Masters They Serve Are at War.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

ALL human experience has shown that a man possessed by ambition can not be trusted.

The explanation lies in the ancient truth that no man can serve two masters.

Many people fail to understand that saying because they miss the significance of the word "master." They define the word by adjusting it to their own experience, and in their experience a master is no more than an employer.

But the word means much more than that. A master makes a slave. The master of a vessel at sea has absolute control of those on board—to punish them, to marry or bury them, and in extremity to kill them.

A master dominates and controls. To say that a man is mastered by rage is to say that he has lost control of himself and wholly surrendered to a passion that is foreign to justice and reason.

A man can serve two employers. He can by treachery serve two opposing causes. But he can be mastered by only one thing at a time.

That is, of course, quite obvious. If a man is mastered by fear, he can not be at the same time mastered by love or envy. Fear possesses his mind, to the exclusion of all else.

The truth that a man can not serve both God and Mammon has been accepted by many without conviction. "But many good men," they say, "make a great deal of money." That is beside the point.

The text refers to masters. If a man accepts God as his master, he may continue to have many interests. But he will have no other master. Whether he plows corn or directs an industry, his one desire will be to serve God.

If Mammon is his master, he will be dominated by his lust for money. No other motive or concern can turn him from his master's service; and even his honesty, if he is honest, will be a policy adopted because it pays.

Ambition masters men. The history of our country is the story of men who sacrificed friends, honor and the good of the nation to serve it.

You can not trust a man mastered by ambition, for he is a master's slave. And the slave must deny his best friend when the master commands it.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Standing by Roosevelt.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

A distinction of the Roosevelt administration, unprecedented in the history of the American Government, is the support it is receiving from elements of the people which a few years ago would have opposed some of the policies which the President is undertaking to enforce. This support is emphasized by the common knowledge that doctrinaires of both the Democratic and the Republican party are now acknowledging their willingness to follow Franklin Roosevelt in any departure they conceive him to have made from the doctrines which they have been accustomed to hold as sacred. And to the doctrinaires must be added the even larger class of conservative business men who ten years ago would have condemned as indefensibly radical some of the remedies which the President proposes to apply to the national economic malady. That fact was strikingly brought out by the expressions of prominent members and officials of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

Currency Stability Necessary.

New York Herald Tribune.

It is not too much to say that unless the forthcoming economic conference in London reaches an agreement to stabilize exchange on a gold basis it will have been held in vain. What are tariff barriers as an obstacle to international commerce compared with currencies whose fluctuation overnight makes every foreign transaction a pure speculation? No general revision of tariff policy to promote trade, no reciprocal arrangement of any kind will be worth the paper it is printed on if dollars and pounds and francs are to be permitted to continue seesawing in terms of one another.

New Deal.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The old catch phrase, "Let George do it," is obsolete. "Let Franklin D. do it" is the modern equivalent.

Loss to Clean Politics.

Houston Post.

Unfortunately for the City of New York, Joseph V. McKee has accepted a position with a large business concern and will retire definitely from the political arena.

McKee is the sort of man that the public service can ill afford to lose. He was the best prospect New York City had of getting clean and efficient municipal government. Now that he has decided he has had enough of politics and will in the future devote himself strictly to private business, it remains to be seen whether the metropolis will continue along in the same old way, or whether there will arise some other striking figure, such as was McKee, who will effect the cleaning that the New York City government must have now and then.

Farm Strike Is Futile.

Kansas City Times.

The Farmers' Holiday Association in convention at Des Moines declared a farm strike to become effective May 13 and to continue until farmers are paid cost of production for farm commodities. Every one will agree that the ultimate object is highly desirous for the welfare of both farmers and consumers. If the demand were for costs of efficient production, accompanied by a definite statement of such costs, this movement would attract many more followers.

This strike, if it comes, will depend, as all strikes do, for its success upon the support of public opinion. Up to the present moment it does not have the support of a majority of farmers. It has been fostered by farm leaders who have failed to maintain the full confidence of the organizations they represent. Even though the strike were temporarily successful in a limited area, it is foredoomed to failure because it would stop the flow of farm products to market, either backing them up to form further congestion when released, or in the case of perishable products, result in absolute loss to the producers.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

MR. TWITCHELL IS TRIED AS A GOLD HOARDER.

Q. What is your name?

A. Elmer M. Twitchell.

Q. What does the M. stand for?

A. Muddled.

• • • •

Q. How did you acquire $500 in gold?

A. By a lifetime of hard working and deep thinking.

Q. You read the Government's first demand that you surrender the gold for which you had exchanged the gold certificates?

A. I did.

Q. What did you do?

A. I took the gold out of the safe deposit vault and stuck it under the mattress.

Q. When the first time limit expired you read the Government's second warning, extending the date for surrender?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. What did you do then?

A. I took it from under the mattress and hid it in a kettle.

Q. The second time limit expired and the administration extended the time and issued another warning, did it not? And what did you do this time?

A. I took it from the kettle and hid it in a horse collar.

Q. Then there came another and final warning. What did you do this time?

A. I read where Senator Borah said if he had $500 he would defy the Government to come and get it, so I consulted a lawyer.

Q. What did the lawyer say when you told him you had some gold?

A. He showed immediate surprise, and asked how much I had.

Q. When you told him you had $500 what did he say?

A. He said he'd take the case.

• • • •

Q. He told you that nobody could make you give up gold, as I understand it. What did you say to that?

A. I told him that the last time I consulted a lawyer he had made me give up plenty.

• • • •

Q. Mr. Twitchell, you know, do you not, that the Government has provided a fine of $10,000 and ten years in jail for gold hoarders?

A. Yes, sir.

Q. Aren't you afraid that this sentence will be imposed?

A. Not at all.

Q. Why not?

A. I know enough about lawyers to know that when this trial is over I won't have the $500.

Judge (hilariously)—Case dismissed. And give Mr. Twitchell a glass of beer on the house.

A TAX PROBLEM.

New York State has ruled that people who sell their blood for blood transfusions must pay a sales tax. Even if you give your right eye for a man, you are presumably liable for a gift tax.

And there surely must be an inheritance tax if you are found with any of the ills to which flesh is heir.

Foreign holders of American bonds are concluding that in the new deal the game is Contract Repudiation Bridge.

Western railroads are to reduce fares, following the action of some Southern systems. If the Eastern roads would try this they would provide a little company for that lone passenger who has been riding around in solitude for the last three years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Gold Has Nothing but Fiat Value, Says Writer—Half as Much in Dollar Would Do Just as Well.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Since inflation is the question of the hour, may I add a suggestion to the many you have already published:

Gold has no intrinsic value unless our Nation and other nations join in unison to make it so. In the days of Pharaoh Tut-ankh-amen a chariot was covered with gold and a solid gold coffin was utilized in which to bury the king; but an iron dagger was found in his mummy beside a gold one, showing that iron, because practically unknown then, was as valuable as gold. Diamonds would be cheap as crystal beads if the miners of the most precious of our jewels, as well as the distributors of them, would permit the markets to be flooded with diamonds.

If the nations of the world saw fit to make half as many grains of gold as we now use in the dollar worth what the dollar is now worth, that would stabilize gold. If the gold supply of the world is insufficient (as it appears to be) to carry the weight of the world's commerce; or if there is disposition on the part of speculators to buy up all the gold for hoarding purposes, then the nations of the world can agree to use less gold in making what is our dollar equivalent; or they can show to speculators that "business" can make money out of leather or anything else, so long as all nations agree to account it as "worth its weight in gold." Gold has no intrinsic worth, only as we make it so, and gold has fluctuated in its value just as other commodities have. J. O. KNOTT.

The Meanderer

Continues Search for Mother's Day Ideas; With Reports on Variety of Gifts.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extention 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

Baskets of flowers for Mother's Day may be ordered to suit the customer for $3 up at a florist's shop on H street. White carnations mingled with purple larkspur, yellow tulips, pink tulips and yellow or purple iris may be attractively arranged in the baskets labeled "Mother," or decorated with tiny dolls in motherly garb.

Handkerchiefs for mother may be chosen from a countless array. The Meanderer has told of many kerchiefs selling for 25 cents to $1. This morning she reports on dainty bits of linen and lace of delicate workmanship, valued from $1.75 to $43.50. In many of these more expensive handkerchiefs the little squares of linen are handwoven and trimmed with real lace—of both the val and binch types.

A white summer bag for mother with white washable gloves would combine well in a gift package. The bags are in several styles, including the wooden bead new type bags for $1, and the gloves are marked only 59 cents a pair in a small shop on F street often visited by the Meanderer.

A small, well-designed copper lamp, complete for $2.95, is an idea for Mother's Day shoppers in a leather and gift shop on F street.

So responsive were Washington women to the introductory offer of an exclusive line of toiletries featured in one big Washington shop that the shop has announced the continuance of the offer through the remainder of this week. In the $3.50 introductory offer are four beauty preparations famous in Europe, only recently placed on the American market, at prices not prohibitive to the average Washington woman. A set of the exquisite toiletries would be in indubitably good taste for Mother's Day offerings.

Bowls of hobnail glassware and many other pieces in this reproduction of the ware of our grandmothers' days are at prices spectacularly low in a shop the Meanderer can tell you about.

White pigskin gloves at $1.95 are still another suggestion for Mother's Day. They are made of fine, smooth skins, and sell in a specialty shop on F street.

Fluffy summer negligees of "powder puff prints" made to launder and to give summer comfort, are only $3 in the store selling the white gloves just mentioned. Other negligees sure to be acceptable to mothers are in chantung and in pure dye silks for as little as $3.95 in this shop.

RESPONSES TO TAKEOUT DOUBLES.

IN responding to a Takeout Double, a bid of some kind is necessary when the opponent at the left of the Double passes. Responses to Takeout Doubles may be classified broadly as minimum and strength responses. When holding from 0 to 1½ honor tricks, a minimum response should be made—that is, a simple (non-Jump) Takeout of the adverse bid. This response must be made even with a blank hand and in an entirely worthless suit.

When, however, the partner of the Declarer is in the happy position of holding 2 or more honor-tricks, he should immediately disclose his strength by making a Jump Takeout of the Double. The strength response does not guarantee a strong suit, but is justified with a rather weak major, such as Queen-Knave-5-3, with at least 1½ honor-tricks outside, or any stronger trump suit with proportionately less strength in other suits. This is the one case in Contract bidding where a Jump response to partner's call is justified with a non-biddable suit.

When a major suit response is not justified by the bidding, in cases where strength should be shown, two notrump should be bid; if holding a stopper in the adverse suit or if the doubled bid is a bid of one notrump, a Penalty Pass should be the chosen alternative.

In the exceptional cases where more than 2 honor-tricks are held by the partner of the Doubler, a double Jump Takeout should be made, provided the hand also contains a good trump suit, assuring about 4 trump-tricks.

In responding to a Takeout Double, a four-card major should always be preferred to a four-card minor, generally entirely disregarding the relative honor strength in the two suits. Assuming that Opening Hand has bid one club and your partner has made a Takeout Double, which is passed by Third Hand, you should bid one spade holding:

Spades	Q 10 7 3
Hearts	8 5 4
Diamonds	A J 9 2
Clubs	7 3

rather than one diamond.

When holding a four-card major suit and a long minor suit, the four-card major, if headed by the Knave or higher, should be preferred, generally, to a five-card minor. However, a six-card minor suit should be bid in preference to a four-card major suit of average strength. Take as an example the hand above and replace one of the small hearts with another diamond. The response to the Takeout Double of one club should still be one spade. If there are six diamonds in the hand and only four spades, then a diamond response should be preferred.

Holding two four-card major suits, the spade suit should almost invariably be called, even with a stronger heart suit. An exception to this rule, of course, would be when holding 10-9-5-4 of spades and Ace-King-Queen-5 of hearts. While partner might infer from this response that four spades were not held, the much greater strength in the heart suit justifies this departure from rule. Inasmuch as in either case a Jump response would be justified, the Takeout Doubler would still be in a position to bid spades, for which support could later be shown.

When holding no four-card suit, except that bid by opponents, and without a stopper in that suit, the lowest three-card minor suit should be bid. However, if a stopper is held in the opponents' bid suit and the hand contains a minimum of 1 honor-trick, the response should be notrump, either one or two, depending upon the strength held.

The student must remember that a notrump response to a Takeout Double implies the possession of a minimum of 1 honor-trick and a stopper in the adversely bid suit, hence is not a declaration of abject weakness, but a showing of some strength which may be of considerable importance in view of the strength shown by partner through the Takeout Double.

As all responses to Takeout Doubles are forced, any simple response, such as one diamond, one heart or one spade over an adverse bid of one club, may show a complete Yarborough.

When holding a four-card major suit, as well as a stopper in opponents' bid suit, a major suit response is generally to be preferred to notrump. With a four-card minor and also a stopper in the opponents' bid suit, a notrump response is justified when the hand holds 1 plus honor-trick, but in other cases the minor four-card suit should be bid.

The broad distinctions between weakness and strength responses to Takeout Doubles have already been drawn. The student will do well to keep these clearly in mind. For example, if partner doubles an adverse Opening bid of one club and you hold

Spades	K J 9 6
Hearts	A 4 3
Diamonds	Q 7 4 3 2

the correct response is two spades. This bid, of course, does not force your partner to continue the bidding further. If his Double was made on minimum strength, he may pass, but if his hand is of about that strength and also has support for the spade Takeout, he will bid again, and a game contract, even in the face of the adverse Opening bid, should be reached.

A Jump response to a Takeout Double made in a minor suit or a Jump Response in any suit after an opponent's bid of one notrump has been doubled shows, in general, greater strength and greater length than a single Jump response in a major suit. The logic behind this is that the Jump response in such a situation immediately undertakes a contract of three-odd. Thus, after partner doubles an adverse Opening bid, a player holding a hand containing 2 honor-tricks but without a major suit should bid either two notrump with a stopper in the adverse suit, three of a minor suit, or make a Penalty Pass of an Opening one-notrump bid.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

FROM Paris comes the word of "old" fabrics being used for the fall collections, now showing. This means materials which were offered before and during the war, many of them lovely and unusual, but today woven with modern skill and technique. These new materials are quite different in character from the materials recently used in the style world, and quite lovely—as well as practical.

Think back to some of your favorites. Remember duvetyn? Kasha? Faille, and what in the world was that old wide-ribbed silken fabric which wore so badly and was so popular! Anyhow, they are to be used this fall in their renewed versions. And quite a distinctive note they do strike, too.

• • • •

In some of the most attractive tweeds I have ever seen—for fall, they are, too, there is a purplish red and a purplish blue—all "heather on the moor" and "twilight shadows deepening" stuff. And the effects one creates with them when it comes to accessories! Taupe, eel gray—less slippery than it sounds—and their own selves for contrast make delightful effects. Somehow the brunette, the blonde, the demitypes—all the white-haired types, are particularly flattered by these two colors. Only perhaps the titian-haired types can not wear them.

• • • •

How often the most successful frock in a Paris collection is due to nothing more or less than its collar and cuff effect! And to think that these little lingerie touches are, so-o-o-o-o easily made, even though they require so much skill! Yet they make the gown, so why not acquire the skill needed for their construction. And their usefulness warrants the care taken in their making—because one lovely collar can be worn on the same frock, as you wish. This week's illustrated leaflet gives you at least 20 new collar and cuff designs, which you can follow yourself, or have your maid make for you and your new frocks. Why not send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for it, and put the leaflet away if you haven't a great deal of use for it right this minute?

An revoir.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

MOTHERS in their eagerness to have their children eat well, or because they are busy and don't want to be bothered by requests for another serving, frequently overload the child's plate with too much food.

This is good neither for the child's health nor for its manners.

The child with a good appetite, looking at such a plate, may fall to with gusto, but he tends to bolt his food and to eat in a less mannerly fashion than if moderate-sized helpings had been placed before him.

The child with a finicky appetite is likely to be discouraged by such a plate. The pile of food looks too big for him to tackle; his none-to-good appetite is gone before he has even begun to eat.

He feels that he can never eat it all, and he hates to start. He knows it will be a long siege with mother hanging over him saying, "Just a little bit more," and "Come now, be a good child, clear your plate."

It is much better to serve the child with modest first helpings. If he has a good appetite, he can always ask for more. If he has not, he can develop a better attitude by the feeling of success that he has when he clears his plate without forcing himself and then knows that there is more food for him if he wants it.

Indeed, such a child should have very small helpings, which can be increased gradually as his appetite improves. He will feel extremely pleased with himself on the day when he first asks for seconds.

Approval for eating more than is on his plate is psychologically much better than nagging him to take one more mouthful even when the "more" of a second helping represents less food than all of a first big helping.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"TAURUS."

IF May 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:50 a. m. to 11:15 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:20 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:50 a. m. and from 2:30 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Do not allow yourself to get caught off-guard on this day; this is particularly good advice to those who work under the supervision of others.

The child born on this May 11 will probably aspire to things greatly beyond his ability to grasp. He will try hard in every way to satisfy the ambitions of his parents for him, but he may prove a great disappointment to them. He will not be an obscure personage at school.

Born on May 11, you are not a person of great ambition. You will undoubtedly be satisfied if you make a comfortable livelihood for yourself and family. You have no desire to "make a name" for yourself. You mingle well with others and though you present a gruff exterior, you are quickly found out to be a kindly and gentle soul.

If May 11 is the date of your birth, your mate will have a good deal to do with the success or failure of your life. There is much good in you, but like all others, you have your share of bad qualities.

Successful people born on May 11:
Irving Berlin, composer.
John Lowell, philanthropist.
Matthew Vassar, philanthropist.
Septimus Winner, composer.
Charles W. Fairbanks, senator.
Theodore D. Wilson, naval constructor.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

"BROKEN" BLOOD VESSELS.

THIS department receives many letters asking about the tiny, threadlike, twisting blood vessels plainly seen in the skin. They are most often noticed around the nose and cheeks, but a great many inquiries are made about this condition on the thighs. Occasionally they are observed on the body.

Many readers ask if these are varicose veins. That question can be answered quickly. They are not varicose veins, nor are they forerunners of these veins. They are not caused by mechanical obstruction, as are varicose veins, and they are not located in the regions where veins are prone to become varicose.

There are several names for this condition. One is telangiectasis and, in many of the other names, the first nine letters of this long word appear. The reason for this is that the appearance is due to a prominence of and sometimes to an increase of blood vessels ordinarily not visible to the eye.

There are two varieties of this trouble, one developing in middle life or beyond and the other present at birth or becoming apparent in young children. This article deals with the first.

A man who has been a pretty steady drinker for a long time notices that his nose is red when he is drunk and it does not become pale when he is sober. Somewhat disconcerted, he looks closely and he sees a number of fine, twisting blood vessels in certain areas of his skin. Or the location may be the cheeks or the thighs.

The cause is even more varied than the location. Drinking whisky is not one-tenth as guilty as is charged. Even when the man is an old toper, the immediate cause of the trouble is generally indigestion, gastritis, gallbladder trouble or cirrhosis of the liver rather than alcoholism.

Exposure to weather may be the cause. Another is infection of the sinus. So-called catarrh is another. Goiter and tuberculosis are others.

The leading group of causes are the infections. To this group belong those around the nose and cheeks, resulting from infections of the sinuses, the nose and the eyes.

The probability is that most of those on the thighs are due to infection of the pelvic organs or some other disorders there. As has been said, disorders of the liver, gall bladder and the digestive tract cause a large proportion of the cases.

Many want to know how serious this condition is, whether it develops into anything serious, and what can be done about it. The condition is not serious. The effect on the appearance (and sometimes unjustly on the reputation) is the sum total of the harm done. Nor do these vessels develop into anything. When they become visible they are just about through growing and not many new ones are scheduled to follow after. The only significance of the disorder is that it points to something somewhere else, and it may be wise to heed the stop-look-and-listen sign.

It's worth a special trip to our showrooms to see this exhibition. We built the kitchen large, so that Miss Ruth Sheldon, our well-known Home Economist, could conduct cooking classes and give you the benefit this summer of her vast and expert knowledge of the culinary art. And of course it includes a modern air-cooled gas refrigerator, with advantages that make frozen desserts, cold dishes and salads easy to prepare.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

STUNG by the charge made by Oswald F. Schuette, of the National Association of Broadcasters, that the American Society of Composers were a "bunch of racketeers," E. C. Mills, of the composers, came back with the retort if the charge were true, then Secretary of the Treasury Woodin must be a "racketeer," because he was a member of the society.

Mr. Woodin, as is well known, is a composer. Now Mr. Mills comes along with the fact that James P. Warburg, Undersecretary of the Treasury, also is a memebr of the American Society of Composers. Both Mr. and Mrs. Warburg are members, in fact, writing under the names of Paul James and Kay Swift.

Their songs have been repeatedly broadcast. Among the best known are "Can't We Be Friends?" from the "Little Show;" "Can This Be Love?" from the musical comedy "Fine and Dandy," and "Johnny Wanamaker," from the "Garrick Gayeties."

The assertion is made that if a commercial program had bought the time for President Roosevelt's talk Sunday night it would have cost approximately $12,000 on one network and $15,000 on the other, a total of about $27,000.

Jimmy Durante will deliver some witticisms when Rudy Vallee leads him before a microphone during the Sunshine Hour tonight (WRC, 7 o'clock).

Other stars whom Rudy will present during the program will be Ethel Waters, Harlem singer now starring at the Cotton Club; Montague Love, stage and screen actor, and the Three Roberts Brothers, radio headliners.

CHEERIO, rarely heard at night, will give a special reading of Longfellow's "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" from New York over WMAL this evening at 9:30 o'clock.

Commenting upon the presentation Cheerio recently wrote this writer:

"I am scheduled to do my adaptation of Coleridge-Taylor's 'Hiawatha's Indian Feast' along with an Indian princess and a tom-tom, Manitou be thanked."

It will be a highlight of National Music Week. Cheerio has been working on the presentation for some time, which will, undoubtedly, be an outstanding program.

A marvel has been the way Cheerio has kept the secret of his identity. His name has been frequently printed, but as yet he is unknown to the public at large. Nevertheless, at a White House garden party a year or so ago he was dumfounded when a little boy waved to him and called out, "Hello, Cheerio." He was one of the few who have ever recognized the famous entertainer.

Emma Redell, American soprano, a native of Washington, and said to be the only American ever invited to sing in the Soviet Union, will be interviewed over WJSV by Dr. Jan Schimek in New York at 1:30 p. m.

Miss Redell will relate some of her experiences in Russia and will give her views of the results of Soviet mass education in the arts. Engaged by Albert Coates, general musical director of the Soviet, for ten appearances with the Soviet Symphony, Miss Redell was called upon to give 33 concerts throughout the Soviet Union, traveling from central Russia to Siberia and thence southward to the Ukraine.

HENRY T. RAINEY, Speaker of the House of Representatives, will be heard over WMAL tonight at 9 o'clock, as he addresses the sixteenth annual meeting of the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

Henry T. Ewald, of Detroit, will act as toastmaster during the meeting which will be held in Washington.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, member of the Board of Education, Washington, will speak on "The Effect of the Depression on the Qualifications of Teachers" during a broadcast over the WEAF network this afternoon at 1:45 o'clock (but probably not WRC).

Dr. Douglas S. Freeman, of Richmond, considered an outstanding authority on Southern history, will act as master of ceremonies during the Southeastern Revue over WMAL this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. The program will be titled "In Old Virginia," and will present a variety of Southern talent, including the Edgeworth Concert Orchestra, the Dixie Spiritual Singers, the Virginia Possum Hunters and the famous Richmond Light Infantry Blues Band.

ANOTHER old time minstrel show will be the feature of the evening when Capt. Henry's Maxwell House Show Boat paddles into her mooring in Cape Girardeau, Mo. (WRC, 8 p. m.).

Molasses 'n' January, Capt. Henry's black face comics, will be the end men of the minstrel show, while Paul Dumont, the great old time minstrel man, will be on board as guest entertainer and will supply songs and dispense good cheer. The minstrel show will also include banjo and trombone novelties as well as songs by Lanny Ross and the Show Boat Four.

The late broadcast of the Show Boat, which is put on between 12 and 1 a. m., has become an attraction for the about-towners and for show folk who had been unable to see or hear the program up to the advent of daylight saving time. Last Thursday night the studio was crammed with people in evening dress.

This second broadcast of the evening, put into effect so the program will reach the Pacific Coast at 9 o'clock, has also given many performers on other radio programs a chance to watch the most elaborate hour on the air go through its paces. Altogether it is a smart and critical audience which watches the rebroadcast. And this makes for a good show. Everyone, despite the lateness of the hour, is on his toes.

William J. McAneeny, president of the Hudson Motor Car Co., who will be heard over WMAL at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, is of the opinion that business recovery is further advanced than is generally realized. "In Detroit we have had a buying wave such as we have not seen since the boom days of '20," McAneeny reports. "Confidence is returning and factory operations are in full swing."

"Tales of the Foreign Legion," broadcast over WJSV Thursdays, 9 o'clock p. m., will leave that schedule after the presentation tonight, moving into the Friday period, beginning at 7:30 p. m., on May 19.

Written by Willis Cooper, who also plays the role of Mendoza, the Spanish legionnaire, this sustaining series is produced in Chicago. John C. Daly, the late "Fu Manchu," takes the role of Achmet Ali; Stanley Andrews is cast for Tchernov, the Russian; Douglas Hope is Vibart, the Frenchman, and Ray Appleby plays the hardboiled American sergeant.

With the change of time a new character will enter the script, Slattery, a New York taxi driver, who has joined the Legion. This role will be played by Frank Dane.

THIS May meeting of the Washington section of the Institute of Radio Engineers will be held tonight at the Kennedy-Warren Apartments.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m., and at 8 o'clock Dr. Louis Cohen will give an account of "The Radio Art in U. S. S. R."

Catholic U. Club to Sing.

The Catholic University Glee Club will present a brief concert at the Holy Cross Academy tonight at 8 o'clock. The program, to be directed by Dr. Leo Behrendt, accompanied by Frank J. Brennan on the piano, will consist of a variety of numbers, including folk songs, classical numbers and several novelties.

A New Yorker at Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—Broadway changes its panorama only once a week—that is on Sunday afternoon.

Six days and nights a week the merry-go-round alley of Manhattan flows along about the same.

There passes the gaudy parade of grifters, gamblers, hoofers, chorines, stage stars, bookmakers, detectives, dope peddlers, sightseers, pickpockets, acrobats, apple sellers, newsboys, sandwich board men, beggars, shills, platinum blondes, sidewalk barkers, song pluggers, stilt walkers, bus drivers, shoe shine boys, and others in the New York potpourri—including the gentlemen of leisure who idle in the sun on Panic Island, that wide safety zone in the middle of Times Square which separates Broadway from Seventh avenue.

Then—Presto!

But on Sunday afternoon Broadway washes its face and assumes a benign and dignified mein. Gone is most of its week-day Coney Island clamor.

The street becomes a peaceful promenade for visitors who rarely see Broadway from a Monday to Saturday. Most of the Sunday paraders come from the small suburban towns of Jersey or Westchester. They spend the afternoon strolling along the path in the hope of getting a glimpse of Alfred Lunt, Al Jolson, Marilyn Miller, Jack Dempsey or other celebrated frequenters of the white way lane.

But they rarely realize this ambition. Virtually all the famous folk hie themselves away to rural hills and beaches over the week-end. If they stay in town at all, usually it's to sleep all day.

Cinderellas Afoot.

Incongruous among the Broadway sights on Sunday afternoon are the young girls wearing trailing evening gowns. These are the little shop girls who live in cheap hall bedrooms in the tenement sections.

On a Sunday afternoon they like to take in a movie or stroll up to Central Park with their boy friends. But their meager salaries allow them to own only one party dress; so they buy an evening gown in the hope that some night the boy friend may assemble enough extra quarters to take them dancing and dining.

Men, as well as Marlene Dietrich, can set novel styles. Cecil Beaton, the artist, wore red trousers with an orange jacket to his sister's wedding. Francis Lederer, Broadway's newest matinee idol, wears a turtle neck sweater to afternoon tea.

Linda Watkins, back from North Carolina, is returning to the stage.

That striking blonde at all the first nights is Princess Chlodwig Hohenlohe-Schillingsfurst.

One of the most amusing scenes in Noel Coward's latest comedy is really a sketch that he lifted from one of the first revues he wrote.

Stocks Ride Higher Again On Cheerful Business News

Gain of 3.3 Points Staged as Sales Mount to 3,817,860 Shares.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—An accumulation of unusually cheerful business news generated fresh enthusiasm for financial markets today and prices on most exchanges advanced, in some cases buoyantly.

Stocks jumped 1 to 8 points on a wave of buying that reached its peak in the final dealings. Sugar reacted, but cocoa, silver, silk and hide futures strengthened.

Shares, having taken a large amount of profit taking in the last few markets, seemed ready for the encouraging trade statistics that had appeared before the opening. Initial quotations reflected a well-distributed spirit of optimism and although there were some minor setbacks, stocks found ready buyers, particularly in the last half hour. Low priced specialties met a brisk demand.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite of 90 issues went to a new 1933 high at 70, up 3.3 points net and within about 4 points of the 1932 top, established in September; the industrial average exceeded its last year's high.

For United States Steel, American Telephone, Westinghouse, American Tobacco "B" Case, Consolidated Gas, North American, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Southern Pacific, Delaware & Hudson, Louisville & Nashville, Du Pont and Continental Can, among many others, gains ranged from 2 to more than 3 points. Excitable Columbian Carbon jumped 8, Owens-Illinois Glass 6, Allied Chemical, Crown Cork and Air Reduction around 5 and Eastman nearly as much. Baldwin Locomotive issues were active, the preferred rising better than 8 points, while the common was up 1¾. Kelvinator turned over in large volume for a gain of 1½. General Motors, on heavy transactions, made a new top, up 1⅝. Sales totaled 3,817,860 shares.

The upward path of business was clearly charted by a number of indices. Steel production, responding to what Iron Age called the unchecked "upward sweep of production, prices and purchases," was lifted to 31 per cent of national capacity, from 29 per cent a week ago. Electric power output last week topped that of the corresponding 1932 period by one-half of 1 per cent, thus bettering the mark of a previous year for the first time since June, 1930. Freight traffic on a number of Western roads continues above that of 12 months ago.

United States Steel Corporation's backlog of orders rose 23,572 tons in April, a smaller gain than had been anticipated by some prophets. Nevertheless, it was the first upturn since October and the showing was regarded as creditable, since it was made against a vigorous rise in operations. New orders apparently increased sharply in the latter half of April, more than overcoming earlier excess of production over fresh business.

Enthusiastic and heavier trading caused a general rising of loan prices. The gain averaged eight-tenths of a point. The turnover mounted to $16,067,000.

Curb.

Prices climbed on renewed buying. Utilities and commodities advanced. The trading volume increased to 336,000 shares.

Wheat.

Brisk advances marked trading in grains. Wheat closed strong and 1½ to 2¼ cents up. May wheat sold at 71⅛ cents per bushel.

Cotton.

The Senate's passing the farm bill, minus price fixing, sent cotton up 25 to 29 points. July sold at 8.64. Liverpool reported market gains.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Steel prices unchanged.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Transatlantic issues were actively firm on the stock exchange under the lead of Celanese shares, which improved in sympathy with Wall street and continental buying. Industrials were strong, while Argentine rails were cheerful on traffic and trade pact prospects. Mining shares and giltedged securities moved quietly and the market closed steady.

Paris—Influenced by fresh declines in the American dollar and the English pound sterling, prices on the bourse were slightly higher with trading more active. The closing, however, was unsettled.

Berlin—The tone of the boerse was firmer throughout the session and the closing was sustained.

CURB PRICES CLIMB ON RENEWED BUYING

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—The curb market climbed into higher territory today, as traders impressed with business strides and other favorable developments committed themselves to the buying side.

Prices were steady to firm at the opening but advances retracted somewhat at midday. Rallying tendencies again developed in the early afternoon and continued with increasing vigor to the close.

Utilities responded to the increase of electric production of 0.5 per cent for the week ended May 6 over the corresponding week in 1932.

Among the commodity shares advances of 2 to 3 points were recorded by Gulf Oil, Newmont, Tubize Chatillon and Celanse preferred.

Aluminum Co. advanced 3½ points while other industrials gaining 1 to 2, included Deere & Co., Pan American and A. O. Smith.

Turnover today was 336,000 shares, a substantial increase over the 255,000 shares traded yesterday.

WHEAT VALUES RISE ON FARM BILL NEWS

Britain's Accepting Trade Truce Also Aided in General Upturn.

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—Brisk advances in grain markets today accompanied final steps for enactment of the Roosevelt omnibus farm bill, including $3,000,000,000 inflation.

Actual passage of the bill by the Senate took place half an hour after today's grain trading had ended, but indications beforehand left no question of the outcome, and especially that the bill would reach the President in the shape he desired, with price-fixing amendments omitted. Leading operators said defeat of price-fixing was the most gratifying news which had come out of Washington this session and that it meant free and open markets would be maintained.

Wheat closed strong near the day's top figures, 1¼ to 1⅝ above yesterday's finish; corn, 1½ to 2¼ up; oats, ½ to ⅞ advance, and provisions varying from 2 cents decline to a rise of 25 cents.

British Truce Aids.

Adding to the upward impetus of grain values was knowledge of British acceptance of a tariff truce and that the international wheat conference at Geneva, Switzerland, had opened today with a statement showing the United States was determined to aid higher prices.

Unexpected upturns in Liverpool wheat quotations, together with strength shown by securities at New York, tended further to hoist the grain markets here.

There were also reports of persistent widespread rains implying worse delays to corn planting, already at a danger point of lateness.

Fluctuations at Times.

Uncertainties about what changes the Government crop report this afternoon would show as compared with last month led to rapid fluctuations in prices at times, but as the day drew to an end the attention of traders focused on progress of the farm bill toward final enactment.

Despite heavy profit taking, highest prices of the day were approximated just before the close. Considerable interest was taken in reports of increased demand for wheat by European countries, and that Russia had bought eight or nine cargoes from Argentina.

Eastern buying was a conspicuous feature of the corn market. Oats followed corn.

Provisions advanced with grains.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON FARM BILL VOTE

July Sells at 8.64 With General Market Up 25 to 29 Points.

New York, May 10 (A.P.).—Cotton rose $1.25 to $1.50 a bale today, showing particular strength in the late trading on news of the Senate's adoption of the farm bill minus the price-fixing amendment.

July contracts, after selling up to 8.66 early, reacted to 8.47, but shot up to 8.68 in the late trading, or 28 points net higher, and closed at 8.64. The final tone of the market was firm at net advances of 25 to 29 points.

Initial prices were 3 to 11 points off on higher Liverpool cables, and sold about 15 to 20 points net higher in the second hour on trade and commission house buying encouraged by the early advance in the stock market and unfavorable features in the weather and crop news.

The advance to 8.95 for December brought out considerable realizing, and prices reacted some 8 to 10 points from the best. From the low level of the reaction the market moved sharply upward in the late trading.

December sold up to 9.05 or within 5 points of last week's peak and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

BUILDING PERMITS SOUGHT IN FAIRFAX

Chamber of Commerce Asserts County Is Losing Thousands Annually.

Advocating more modern methods of conducting county business, the Chamber of Commerce of Fairfax County, Va., passed resolutions urging the county board of supervisors to pass ordinances requiring citizens to secure building permits for all construction and another creating a committee to report on the advisability of zoning ordinances.

The action was taken after a lengthy discussion at the monthly meeting of the trade body in the Annandale School Tuesday night. It was pointed out by advocates of the building permits that the county does not have any control over buildings and loses thousands of dollars annually because the county commissioner of revenue has no way of checking new building for tax assessments. By requiring permits the commissioner would at all times have the necessary information on file for assessment purposes.

The name of the chamber's industrial committee was changed to the development and it was instructed to make an immediate survey of all new buildings for the information of the chamber and the county officials. It consists of one member from each magisterial district of the county.

The committee to study the need of a zoning ordinance was appointed with the following members: Guy N. Church, of Falls Church; Martin T. Webb, of Annandale; Wells Sherman, of McLean; Walton Biggers, of Springfield, and Supervisor C. H. Powell, of Baileys Cross Roads. The committee was instructed to prepare a complete report on the question with recommendation for consideration at the chamber's June meeting.

Speakers for the zoning ordinance declared that proper protection of existing residental districts and the entire future development of the county depended upon the immediate enactment of proper zoning regulations.

Prince Georges Ice Fee Law in Dispute

As a result of the attorney general's ruling on the chain-store law, Brice Bowie, clerk of the Circuit Court of Prince Georges County, yesterday expressed the belief that the new county law would become effective June 1.

The law, which imposes a special $50 annual license fee on ice dealers, has aroused controversy over the existing legal points. Mr. Bowie also issued warning to general merchants to obtain their licenses this month or face a 10 per cent a month penalty.

Laytonsville League Reorganizing.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL.

ONE in search of familiar names on the stage or in the cinema will find almost as many by consulting The Era, "The Official Organ of Entertainment," published in London, England, as upon the pages of Sime Silverman's Variety, America's handbook of amusements.

Norma Shearer.

For instance, in the last issue of The Era—which reaches this desk regularly from some mysterious British source—one comes across such paragraphs as these:

"Mr. Hays' 'Four-Year Rehabilitation Plan' is really no more than an intimation to the world that the American cinema industry intends to cut costs to the bone all the way down the line, and that artists and salaried personnel are likely to be the first victims of the process. 'Better pictures at lower cost' is America's new and chastened slogan, and, although Mr. Hays is a genius in the art of using language to conceal his meaning, there is only one interpretation that can be placed on his remarks."

"Because we criticize Hollywood in general with some severity, we are all the more ready to welcome those enterprises which seem to us to be consistent with the real spirit of America. We have no reservation of any kind in hailing 'State Fair' as a great work in national sentiment, and we have nothing but admiration for the adventurous conception of 'King Kong,' particularly for the stroke of genius which brought the prehistoric monster into actual contact with modern conditions." (Apparently the editor either never knew, or has forgotten, "The Lost World.")

"Henry Mason, our traveling correspondent in the Antipodes, tells us that he met on board the Orsova the old London Film Co.'s famous star, Edna Flugrath, who was 'having a glorious time in the company of her new husband, Halliburton Houghton, an American oil magnate.' Miss Flugrath was the widow of Harold Shaw, one of the first men to make feature films in this country, and is the sister of Viola Dana and Shirley Mason. They were all names which once were box-office magnets."

"Mr. Thalberg, meantime, is enjoying Rivieran amenities in the company of his charming wife, Norma Shearer. They have been staying at Cannes with Michael Arlen, whose futuristic novel, 'Man's Mortality,' would make an excellent screen spectacle in the Wellsian vein. Mr. Arlen is an Armenian whose real name is Dikran Kouyoundjian."

"'Waltz Time,' adapted from 'Die Fledermaus' and starring Evelyn Laye, is due to be trade shown shortly."

"On Sunday night, at the Palace Hotel, Bloomsbury, John Mulholland, vice president of the American Society of Magicians, and editor of the American 'Sphinx,' did a show for the Magicians Club. Several of his tricks completely mystified the army of magicians present."

"Allan Dwan, the famous British-born Hollywood director, has been signed by B. I. P., to direct pictures for them."

It's a small world, after all, my masters.

With as judicious casting and as deft playing next week in Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" as characterize this week's "Goodbye Again," the National Theater Players should continue the bulge in business they are currently enjoying.

"Hay Fever" is a nonsensical, mildly insane, but highly amusing British farce that never fails to keep an audience in a high state of glee. It is in Mr. Coward's drollest vein and under Clifford Brooke's direction should be 100 per cent effective.

For the week beginning with the matinee performance at the Gayety Theater on Sunday, Manager Jimmy Lake is bringing back that supreme beauty of burlesque, Ann Corio. That also means capacity business, or thereabouts.

The new cinema week, beginning variously on Friday, Saturday and Monday, will usher in a completely new line-up of screen and stage attractions, as follows: Palace, John Barrymore and Diana Wynyard in "Reunion in Vienna;" Earle, Ruth Chatterton and George Brent in "Lilly Turner," and Dick Powell in person headlining the vaudeville bill; Loew's Fox, Elissa Landi, David Manners, Ernest Truex and Marjorie Rambeau in "The Warrior's Husband," and Will Mahoney headlining the vaudeville; Rialto, Nancy Carrol, Paul Lukas and Frank Morgan in "The Kiss Before the Mirror;" RKO-Keith's, Jack Holt and Fay Wray in "The Woman I Stole;" Metropolitan, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian in "The Song of the Eagle;" Columbia, James Dunn and ZaSu Pitts in "Hello, Sister."

With the Wilson Line's S. S. City of Washington inaugurating its summer season of moonlight cruises down the Potomac tonight, I wouldn't know what theme song Lou Berman might have selected for his band, but I'd lay a small wager that it won't be "River, Stay Away from My Door!"

Reception Given At Georgetown U.

An elaborate reception was given at Georgetown University last night for Gen. Roman Gorecki, president of the Federation Interallies des Anciens Combattants, known as Fidac, and Mr. Stanislaw Patek, the Ambassador of Poland. Full dress uniforms of Army officers and American Legion officials gave a military air to the reception which was attended by the diplomatic representatives of eight foreign countries affiliated with the Fidac. Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, U. S. A., deputy chief of staff, was the official representative of the United States.

The reception followed a formal ceremony at which Gen. Gorecki, a visiting Polish banker and World War officer, presented to Georgeton University the Fidac educational medal in recognition of the institution's services for international good will.

Dr. Coleman Nevils, president of the university, with Ambassador Patek and Gen. Gorecki, received the several hundred invited guests in the John Carroll parlor of the College of Arts and Sciences after this interesting ceremony. They were assisted by Commander Charles Haun, jr., president of the American section of Fidac, and Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., regent of the School of Foreign Service. Supper was served during the evening.

POOR FIELDING HELPS BROWNS BEAT NATS, 5 TO 0

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

St. Louis, Mo., May 10.

THE American league magnates doubtless will express general approval of yesterday's deal that sent a regular pitcher and a regular catcher from the Browns to the Red Sox in exchange for a minor league catcher and cash.

Any deal that bolsters the Red Sox is slated to increase both interest and attendance in Boston, while, as far as St. Louis is concerned, the league has virtually given up hope that the franchise here is anything but a White Elephant. Nine sandlotters playing every day for the Browns could hardly attract fewer persons than do the Browns at home.

Five hundred persons saw the game here yesterday, and less than 300 today. On one occasion here this season there were only 80 paid admissions. Visiting clubs come to St. Louis' virtually at their own expense, and inasmuch as these conditions have endured for years, the magnates can see nothing but good in any St. Louis trade that serves to strengthen a club like Boston.

Must Now Watch Expenditures.

It is reported here that Phil Ball, once one of the most affluent of the big league magnates, with more ready cash at hand than any other owner, with the possible exception of Col. Ruppert, must now watch his expenditures.

For years Ball has taken losses as high as $200,000 on the season and pocketed them with no regrets, but the fact that a cash payment to the Browns was made by the Red Sox in the deal for Rick Ferrell and Lloyd Brown appears significant.

Ball has always been one of the most prolific traders in baseball, but until last year there is no record of the St. Louis club ever receiving cash in addition to talent. It was always a straight player swap for players calculated to strengthen Ball's club, but last winter's deal with Washington and yesterday's trade with Boston saw cash forming a large share of the consideration.

Umpire Ormsby Lauds Linke.

The I'm for Linke Club gained another and valuable member yesterday in Umpire Red Ormsby, who worked behind the plate when the bulbous young right hander faced the Browns.

"It was just a couple of bad balls that got Linke out of there in the fifth inning," said Ormsby. "He looked great and they're going to see a lot more of him in this league.

"There aren't many pitchers faster than Linke and for a young fellow he's got a swell change of pace and nice action out there in the box."

Carl Reynolds, who is hitting a luscious .270 for the Browns when he is not out of the game due to a wrenched shoulder, was leading the league a year ago with a .420 average.

Fondren's 71 Low Medal At Manor

Georgian Gets 35 and 36 in Invitation Golf Tourney.

Dettweiler Fails to Qualify; Matches Begin Today.

By DAVE HERMAN.

AN unheralded and unsung golfer from Augusta, Ga., answering to the name of W. D. (Dub) Fondren, yesterday afternoon scored a sparkling 71, matched par for the 18-hole journey, and projected himself unceremoniously into the spotlight in the medal competition of the Manor invitation championship.

Packing a terrific wallop in his woods, playing his irons with deadly accuracy, and putting skilfully, the drawling Georgian with the affable smile outstroked the cosharers of the first day's honors, Harry Pitt, the home defender, and Craig McKee, of Indian Spring, by a markin of 2 shots, and carried off the qualifying prize against a field of more than 350 golfers assembled from every club in the District.

Fondren, of French descent, drifted ago and admitted that he entered the and admitted that he entered the tournament at the eleventh hour at the insistence of his District friends. Touring the rigid Manor course in company with Beverly Mason, jr., of Chevy Chase, the Georgian beat par on the first nine by 1 stroke, being out in 35, after opening his attack with a birdie 4 on the first hole.

Georgian Misses Putt.

The 25-year-old Georgian missed his putt on the fifth, taking a 5, but came back to nail a 15-footer for a birdie 3 on the 328-yard seventh.

Fondren traversed the incoming side in 36, 1 over par. The two short holes, the eleventh and seventeenth, apparently stumped the Dixie invader, for he took fours on each, but had to make up for his mistake with two brilliantly played shots for a birdie 3 on the sixteenth.

The modest medalist is a member of the Augusta Country Club, where he is champion. Invitation titles were won by him at Bon Air, Ga.; Asheville, N. C., and Memphis, Tenn.

Harry Saunders, crack Rock Creek golfer, trailed the leader by three strokes with his 74. Next in line came Parker Nolan, the long driving Indian Spring star, and John Shorey, of Kenwood, each with 75.

Congressional's lone qualifier was Luther Steward, jr., whose 77 matched that of Martin F. McCarthy, of Beaver Dam. Bobby Bowen, Rock Creek youngster, made the grade with 78.

So keen was the battle for sixteen places that in lengthening shadows of the evening, three participants tied with 79, had to wage a three-hole play-off for the remaining two places. D. H. Boyden, of Rolling Road, Baltimore, sank a 20-footer for a birdie 4 on the first to qualify, while Frank Weller, of Columbia, won the last position by scoring a 4 to L. T. Newton's 5 on the third hole.

Keen disappointment was occasioned when Billy Dettweiler, 15-year-old Manor sensation, failed to qualify. Dettweiler had a 39—41—80,

MACKS TAKE TWO FROM TIGERS

Win, 3-2 and 6-4, to Advance in Standing in Race.

DETROIT, May 10 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics neared the .500 mark in the standings today by winning both engagements of a double-header with Detroit, 3 to 2 and 6 to 4.

While the Tigers outhit the Athletics, 8 to 5, in the opener, the Macks bunched their hits, and Marberry added the necessary walks for the decision. Merritt Cain worked throughout the first game, while Marberry gave way to Whitlow Wyatt at the start of the eighth inning. Johnson's homer in the seventh inning for the Athletics was the high spot of the game.

Sorrell Pounded Out In Seventh.

Vic Sorrell, who pitched through two outs in the seventh inning of the nightcap, was found for thirteen hits before Chief Hogsett relieved him.

Rube Walberg held the Tigers in check until the closing inning, when the Tigers scored two runs.

Central Nine Wins Series Game, 9-2

Western Stopped by Cowan; Strategic Move Fails.

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON.

CENTRAL tightened its grip on the leadership of the current inter-high school race yesterday through the medium of a well-deserved 9-2 victory over Western. It was the Blue's second consecutive win and the second straight defeat for Western.

Claude Cowan, Central's mound ace, held Western well in hand after Silverman's bad example of permitting the West-enders a brace of runs in the opening frame. In all, the losers rang the bell for 8 hits, 4 of which were exchanged for two runs, at the present rate, in the opening inning. Though Western remained dangerously near its opponents until the last inning, it failed to exhibit a punch potent enough to tie the score.

After Central tallied twice in the third, again in the fourth and twice in the fifth, there wasn't much left to do but play the required number of innings for the official stamp of approval. Cowan mowed down rival batsmen in easy fashion, while Western, as stated above, neither lost ground nor gained any.

Strategic Move Fails.

Hope still lingered in the breasts of the Red Sox when the final inning was reached, with Central still ahead by a 5-to-2 margin. But a bit of attempted big-league strategy dampened Western's prospects for victory. Jack Ready, who relieved Francis Grimm at the start of the fourth, walked Keyser and Nau purposely, after L. Chumbris singled.

The bases were loaded and two out when Mario Gregorio came to bat. According to Western's calculations, Gregorio was supposed to fan or at best roll out. He punched a single to deep right, scoring two runners, and going to second in the throw in.

Both he and Nau came home later. Nau on Wood's passed ball and Gregorio on Delisio's single.

Western's last real bid for runs occurred in the seventh inning, which opened with a walk for Corcoran, followed by Ready's single. But poor base running wiped both off the bases and the rally collapsed.

Eastern clashes with Tech tomorrow at Eastern.

Chapman May Tackle Swanson in Track Race

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—A match foot race between Ben Chapman, of the New York Yankees, and Evar Swanson, Chicago White Sox outfielder, is being smoked up.

Chapman, the Alabama flyer, has won neat profits for his teammates, notably Babe Ruth, in trimming other American League speedsters at 100 yards.

Swanson, a high-geared runner himself, ran the century in 9.7 seconds while competing for Lombard College, and might be the boy to outfoot the fleet Chapman. In a base-circling contest against Stanley Hack, fastest of the Chicago Cubs, during the training season, Swanson won easily.

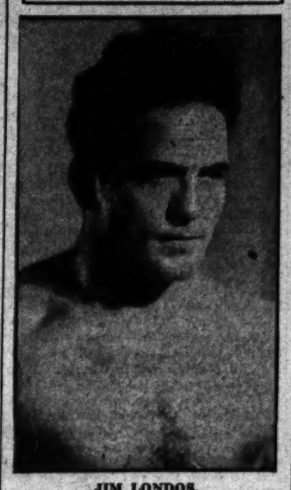
Battles Dusek



JIM LONDOS.

E. Dusek Vies With Londos Tonight

Is Conceded His Best Chance to Beat Big Greek.

MULTIMUSCLED Jim Londos, that gorgeous Greek and still generally recognized kingpin of the rassle world, tonight encounters big league opposition at the Washington Auditorium.

Still the center of a furore instigated following a disputed fall awarded Joe Savoldi over him in Chicago a few weeks ago, the bronzed wonder man of the mat is scheduled to a finish with Ernie Dusek, wild-mixing brother of Jim's ace rival of two seasons ago, big brother Rudy.

Not since Londos bucked Dusek in three bouts at Griffith Stadium two years ago has so much interest been steamed up in a match involving Londos here. Conqueror of Ray Steele, Jim McMillan, George Zaharias, Paul Jones, Hans Kampfer and Fred Grobmier this past winter, big Ernie is conceded the best opportunity of upsetting Londos of any rassler pitted against him locally in many a moon.

Will Do His Best To Win.

That Ernie intends turning loose hammer and tongs against Londos tonight is vouched for both by himself and brother Rudy.

"This is Ernie's big chance to cash in," Rudy insists, "and you can bet your life he will be in there mixing it. Furthermore, I'll be at ringside helping Ernie all I can—I know most of Jimmy's tricks, you know."

Although the grand finale far overshadows any bout offered here in months, a potent supporting show backs up the main event admirably.

In the semifinal, Gino Garibaldi exchanges bruises with that other stormy worker, "Demon Dick" Raines. Both are rousing free-for-allers and chock full of dynamite.

Interesting 30 minute limits schedule Rudy Dusek against Tom Alley; Lou Plummer vs. 'Chief' Chewaki and Eli Fischer vs. Martin Zikoff.

Tickets remain on sale at Joe Turner's Hotel Annapolis office until 5 o'clock this afternoon. Only 25 cents is required of ladies accompanied by paying escorts, also of children under 16.

Barred From America, Arizmendi Will Appeal

Tia Juana, Mexico, May 10 (A.P.). Barred from the United States as an "undesirable alien," Alberta (Baby) Arizmendi, Mexican featherweight boxer, and at one time a leading contender for the world title in his class, said today he would appeal to the United States Department of Labor.

An immigration board of inquiry, sitting at San Ysidro, Calif., yesterday ruled against the Mexican. Arizmendi recently lost a civil suit in Los Angeles brought by Frances Armenta, 17, who charged the fighter with being the father of her child. A judgment for $3,500 was returned against the Mexican.

YanksBeaten; Indians Tie For Lead

Gomez Is Routed by White Sox; Jones Gives Six Hits.

Chicago Attack Led by Simmons With Three Bingles.

CHICAGO, May 10 (A.P.).—The New York Yankees, leaders in the American League race since the opening day, today dropped into a tie with the Cleveland Indians, as the Chicago White Sox chased Lefty Gomez from the mound in less than two innings and then went on to a 10-to-2 victory over the world champions.

The Sox found Gomez and his successors, MacFayden and Jablonowski, for 14 hits, while Sam Jones, who'll be 41 years old in July, held the Yanks to six scattered blows for his third victory of the season.

Al Simmons connected with a double and two singles to lead the Sox attack, which netted two runs in the first inning and five in the second. Gomez left the game in the second after one run had been scored and with the bases loaded. Evar Swanson greeted MacFayden with a triple that cleared the sacks. The winners picked up two more runs in the third, and their tenth counter in the sixth.

The Yankees had visions of being shut out for the first time in 233 games, as Jones shut them out with two hits in the first five frames. In the sixth, however, passes to Byrd and Gehrig and Chapman's single, all after two were out, kept the champions' record intact.

Reds Capture Two; 3 Clouts for Klein

Philadelphia, May 10 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds balanced their won and lost columns today as they batted out a double victory over the Phillies, to raise their percentage to .500 and sink Philadelphia deeper into the cellar. The scores were 10 to 7 and 4 to 3.

Chuck Klein, slugging right fielder of the Phillies, did his best to stave off defeat, hitting three homers in the two games. He cracked out two of them in the curtain raiser to account for five runs, and drove in two tallies in the nightcap with the other circuit hit. The three boosted his total for the season to six.

SWEEPING LIGHT, FAVORITE, WINS IN PIMLICO'S FEATURE

Moves Ahead As The Nut Falters

Scotch Gold Second; Rehoboth Victor Over Sprinters.

Indigo Takes Jumping Race; Snobful Beats Levaal.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 10.—Sweeping Light, owned and operated by one M. J. Lacey, went wrong for the Derby a year ago. Since then the son of Man—Sweeping Glance has developed into quite a race horse and furthered evidence of his ability yesterday by leading home the half dozen that contested at a mile and a furlong in the Arundel, the day's feature. A length behind came Scotch Gold with The Nut third.

J. Pets had the mount on Sweeping Light, which was installed a favorite, and rode a waiting race. Scotch Gold hopped out in front at the barrier rise and banked the clubhouse turn in front. However, entering the back stretch, The Nut moved up to take command, followed by Sweeping Light. On the swing at the far turn Sweeping Light forged ahead and stayed there for the rest of the journey. Scotch Gold came again in the stretch to take the second money.

A crowd of some 10,000 witnessed the program. The weather was ideal and the track was drying out fast as the program progressed.

Damascene Wins Opener.

An odds-on favorite bit the dust in the opener, a mile and a sixteenth test for a cheap field. The winner turned up in Damascene from the Labrot string. Canterwood was second and Bokie B, at 40 cents on the dollar, third. Bokie B set most of the pace, but faltered in the stretch. The winner was a lukewarm second choice and paid an $8 mutuel.

The favorite players came back in the second race, however, when Aske, a son of Trojan, coasted home over a field of juveniles. Second money went to Precursor, which beat out Wild Rosebud. There was much yelling for Dontara, with Steffen up, but the Trueman gelding couldn't get close.

The Northwood Stable's Indigo, with Mr. R. McKinney in the saddle, made a show of his field in the 2¼ miles of the steeplechase. Indigo beat the field to the first jump and was never headed. Jack Anthony, second all the way, finished in that position ahead of George Jessel. Sid, which forced the pace early in the race, tumbled, but Jockey H. Little escaped injury and walked back to the judges' stand. Indigo had a margin of five lengths at the finish and paid even money.

Rehoboth Takes Handicap.

Rehoboth finally won a race at Pimlico, taking the Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class A, a sprint of 6 furlongs. With the lightweight, Haines, in the saddle, Rehoboth, which Dr. J. Fred Adams has tried to make a stake horse, moved around the leaders entering the stretch to draw away to a length victory over Clotho, which in turn held Kakapo safe by the same margin for the place. The entire field drew play and it was anybody's race at the quarter pole. Ladfield, the favorite, misbehaved at the barrier and then was poorly ridden by Eddie Barnes.

Snobful, a hot thing in the paddock, scored a length victory over Levaal, the favorite, in the sixth race. Royal Past wilted into third place.

Allanah, under Bejshak's handling, easily accounted for the seventh race at 6 furlongs. Help Me took the place from Gay Party.

Mainsheet came up in the stretch to beat Bright Bird and Tuffy G. in the final.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

DEAR AL: PIMLICO RACE TRACK, MAY 10.

If the promised showers fail to materialize here tomorrow there is a chance that the track will be fast toward the middle of the card. It's just possible that such a course will allow Mrs. Bennings' boy to chase the jinx. At any rate, no one has been locked up for trying and as long as the boss gives me a chance I shall keep on picking. I understand that Laurel will have eight races daily with one a jumping race. However, the same old seven-card program will be in order at Bowie. If you like these, get on the line. BILL.

FIRST RACE—PEEDEROUE has had plenty of experience and has proven a clever finisher. The long stretch here is in his favor. A fair racer that seems to have an edge on RHYMING. TAUTON may wake up to show.

SECOND RACE — INSTIGATOR shares top weight with several in this field but appears to have the race at his disposal. His last was a fine race. SUE JONES gets a break in the weights that may find her second. MORDROM for the rest.

THIRD RACE—MACK SENNETT belongs on top of this heap. That race at Havre de Grace behind Towee would take care of this field. POLONIAN and SURETY get the calls for second and third.

FOURTH RACE—I'm going to stick to Mrs. John Hay Whitney's entry of CAWVOGE and SAN RAMOLO. This is the first test for the first named this season, but he was excellent at Saratoga. SAN RAMOLO is the running mate and is not to be counted out of it. REVERENCE was smart the last time. GREATOREX for the show.

FIFTH RACE—DARK LAW is a smart maiden, I understand, and will be turned loose tomorrow. Lone outing of the year was a conditioner. VOTE and ROYAL PURCHASE shouldn't be far out of it.

SIXTH RACE—POLITEN appears to be a winning favorite in this field. STORM has the edge on the others. TOO LATE, twice third, may do as well tomorrow.

SEVENTH RACE—Going right back to BALLY BAY in this. Has plenty of speed and looks like the track will be fast enough to suit. MEXICO and CHLO BOY for the other money places.

EIGHTH RACE — STRONGHEART lost a close one the other day and off that I'm putting him on top. WILLIAM T. is the class but his legs were none too good last out. RUANE may be up to take the show.

PIMLICO, MARYLAND, CHART, MAY 10, 1933.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DAMASCENE, $8.00, $4.40, $2.30; CANTERWOOD, $7.60, $2.60; BOKIE B., $2.20.

DAMASCENE, steadied off the pace and kept out in the firmest footing all the way, reached the leader when straightened into the main stretch and then drew off smartly. CANTERWOOD worked his way up on the outside and came with good courage at the end. BOKIE B. raced SINGLE A. into submission without effort, gained command leaving the back stretch, but faltered badly after going into a clear lead. FAIR JUDGE came again after dropping back midway of the back stretch. KAPPA took a wide course in the last half mile. FUSCO was being eased all during the stretch run. SINGLE A. stopped to a walk.

SECOND RACE—Four furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:31. Off at 2:33. Winner, G. L. Stryker's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ASKE, $5.60, $3.60, $2.40; PRECURSOR, $3.60, $3.00; WILD ROSEBUD, $4.60.

ASKE, showing a fondness for the footing, moved clear when rounding the turn and was taken in hand and steadied all during the stretch run to finish with speed in reserve. PRECURSOR saving ground until entering the home stretch, held on well but was no match for the winner. WILD ROSEBUD was kept on the outside all the way and showed a good effort. DONTARA was strongly ridden and had no excuses.

THIRD RACE—Two and one-quarter miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming handicap. The Glenmore Steeplechase. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 3:01. Off at 3:01½. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INDIGO, $4.00, $3.40, $2.80; JACK ANTHONY, $3.80, $2.80; GEORGE JESSEL, $3.40.

INDIGO, moved into the lead under sufferance when going to the fourth fence, was steadied to all of his fences thereafter and fencing well drew out smartly when shaken up in the last half mile. JACK ANTHONY, following close up and saving ground, made a determined effort at the thirteenth jump, but was held safe thereafter. GEORGE JESSEL, allowed to drop far out of contention and permitted to race on his own courage, closed an immense gap in the last six furlongs. CURTAIN CALL entered contention when ready, but tired when the real test came.

FOURTH RACE—$1,000. Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class A. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:32. Off at 3:35. Winner, J. F. Adams' br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—REHOBOTH, $17.40, $6.80, $4.00; CLOTHO, $5.80, $4.00; KAKAPO, $4.60.

REHOBOTH, stoutly urged from the start and kept on the outside of KAKAPO and CUTIE FACE until reaching the home stretch, took command in the closing furlong and had enough in reserve to withstand CLOTHO's late game challenge. KAKAPO raced CUTIE FACE into submission, and held on well. LADFIELD, taken up when leaving the back stretch, was steered extremely wide in the last three furlongs and lost a great deal of ground. He could have been closer with a saving of ground.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. $1,000 allowances. The Arundel. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won ridden out; place, driving. Went to post at 4:02. Off at 4:03. Winner, M. J. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SWEEPING LIGHT, $4.80, $3.00, $2.80; SCOTCH GOLD, $10.00, $4.60; THE NUT, $2.80.

SWEEPING LIGHT, rated close to the leaders and kept out in the best footing when settled on the back stretch, gained command when kept on the inside of THE NUT entering the home stretch, and strongly ridden thereafter, held SCOTCH GOLD safe. Latter, under restraint while racing in three-quarters, came again under punishment when securing firmer footing in the last three furlongs. THE NUT rushed into a brief lead in the last half mile, faltered during the final drive. BROADWAY LIGHTS was tiptoed and rushed hard to offer early contention, dropped back, and then came again after coming wide into the home stretch. OPEN HEARTH was never a factor.

SIXTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class B. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:33. Off at 4:36. Winner, W. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SNOBFUL, $10.00, $4.30, $2.60; LEVAAL, $3.60, $2.80; ROYAL PAST, $3.40.

SNOBFUL, going in his best form and outrun early, came around the leaders with good speed when put to a drive, disposed of the pacemakers and came away gradually under stiff pressure. LEVAAL, raised in front of the leaders when shaken up in the last half mile, was steadied in front of the fourth fence, was the firmest, withstood a stout effort from ROYAL PAST and then held on willingly. ROYAL PAST made a stout challenge to draw on almost even terms with LEVAAL entering the home stretch, but faltered inside the final furlong when racing in sorry speed. ROCK POINT could not improve his position.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800. Pimlico Graded Handicap, Class C. Start good from gate. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:04. Off at 5:06. Winner, A. Hullcoat's br. m. ALLANAH sprinted into a long lead directly after the start, was kept in the better footing all the way and was never menaced. HELP ME worked his way out of tight quarters while on the outside, moved up fast and held on well when entering into contention. GAY PARTY, shuffled back soon after the start, came determinedly. JAMBALAYA, squeezed back early, finished gamely when clear. ELECTRIC GAFF came wide in the final drive. SWEETHEART LAD raced in spots.

MAINSHEET, taken wide after the break in search of the best footing, was allowed to reach her field gradually while taking a wide course, and coming determinedly under punishment when straightened into the home stretch, wore BRIGHT BIRD down approaching the finish. BRIGHT BIRD stepped into an easy lead, was steadied until challenged and then held on willingly. TUFFY G., slow to get going, came around his field and closed gamely, but was unable to menace the first two.

Fast Workout In Mud for Head Play

Broker's Tip Not So Impressive; Others Take Jaunts.

BALTIMORE, May 10 (A.P.).—After an almost sensational workout today, Mrs. Silas S. Mason's sterling colt, Head Play, was believed by many to be the likely favorite when a select group of thoroughbreds goes to the post in the Preakness Saturday.

Running for the first time since he was barely nosed out by Col. E. R. Bradley's Broker's Tip in the Kentucky Derby last week, Head Play breezed around a muddy track at Pimlico in fast time until his speed was purposely checked by Jockey Earl Steffen.

The Mason entry was clocked at 24 seconds for the first quarter mile, 48 3-5 for the half, 1:01 2-5 for five-eighths and 1:15 for 6 furlongs. After his jockey had received the signal to hold the colt back, the mile was finished in 1:41 3-5 and the mile and an eighth in 1:56 2-5.

Exerts Himself But Little.

Steffen said Head Play was "crying" to run and apparently exerted himself but little. Trainer Thomas Hayes was highly pleased and said after the workout, "He is fit. There should be no excuses Saturday."

In the meantime, other candidates for the $35,000 added Preakness, run over a mile and three sixteenths at the Pimlico track, took workouts, the group including the highly regarded Broker's Tip.

Broker's Tip was not so impressive as was Head Play, but trackmen pointed out that he was not a good work horse when alone and that he was not extended. The time for the Bradley colt was 26 seconds for the first quarter, 52 for the the half mile, 1:17 3-5 for the three quarters and 1:46 3-5 for the mile.

Ordered to Take Things Easy.

Trainer Jimmy Smith had given instructions that the colt take things easy.

Among other horses given workouts was John E. Hughes' Silent Shot, a good mudder, and likely to start in the Preakness only if the track is wet. The time was 1:46 2-5. The Llangollen Stable's Poppyman did the same distance in 1:44, while Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch and the Catawba Stable's entry, Good Advice and Mr. Khayyam, had very light jobs around the track.

Trainer Matt Brady said he would not start Good Advice Saturday and would start Mr. Khayyam only in the event of a fast track.

MILLERS WIN FIRST CAPITAL CITY LEAGUE GAME, 14 TO 3

Wood Checks Congress Heights

Yields Only 3 Hits; Maupin, Reigelman, McAboy Star.

Johnson Throws Out First Ball, Stays Throughout Game.

ACTION in the Capital City League, which annually decides the District sandlot baseball champions in the various classes, got under way last evening at Griffith Stadium. In a game started in the twilight and finished under the arc lights, the Miller Furniture Co. nine, last year's senior titleholder, defeated the Congress Heights Club, 14-3. The contest was played prior to the clash of George Washington U. and Salem College.

Walter Johnson, one of the greatest pitchers of all time, returned to the mound, where he unfolded many pitching masterpieces, to toss the first ball which sent the Millers and Congress Heights into battle before an enthusiastic crowd.

Johnson was accompanied to the stadium by his old friend, Judge William Tarver, of Texas, now an official of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Both stayed throughout the game. Others in the guest box were Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor of the Playground Department, which is cosponsoring the league with The Post; Miss Maude Parker, director of women and girl activities of the Playground Department; Richard S. Tennyson, president of the league, and Lieut. Max Prentice, vice president.

As for the game, it was a case of too much Wood on the mound for the Millers. Wood allowed Congress Heights players to hit only three balls out of the infield and, after his mates spotted him a four-run lead in the first inning, coasted to victory. Three hits were charged against him while he fanned six. Congress Heights was held scoreless until the seventh.

Maupin, McAboy and Reigelman were those most prominent in the attack of the Millers. Clements' work afield was outstanding for the Heights.

It was for the first attempt of the sandlotters to play under the lights.

Four games will be played in the unlimited class of the league on Sunday.

NATS BEATEN, 5-0, BY BROWNS' ATTACK

Bob Boken received very little help from his mates today. He connected safely on two of his three trips to the plate, to contribute two-sevenths of the Nats batting attack.

The Nats' base running was in keeping with their outfielding today. Boken was picked off first base in the second inning, and after Bluege reached second on Burns' error in the eighth, somebody crossed him on the signals and he was out by approximately 22½ feet in an attempt to steal third when he believed the hit-and-run play was on.

Up until the time of the eruption in the eighth, the Nats had six hits to the Browns' two, but five of these blows occurred with two out, and that's the kind of ball that Blaeholder was pitching this afternoon.

extra patient here today in Outfielder Sammy West of the Browns who is having his dogs treated by the Nats' specialist. Fred Marberry requested the same treatment in Detroit.

In an effort to bring the Nats their third victory of the four-day game series tomorrow, Manager Cronin is expected to start Walter Stewart. The Nats will face either Hadley or Hebert for the Browns. Schulte is expected to return to the line-up despite his injured finger.

Goose Goslin's rape today, if placed end to end, would stretch to short center field. He grounded to first and second, hit into a double play, and struck out.

G. W. Defeats Salem by 14 to 12

11 Runs Are Scored in Eighth Inning of Night Game.

GEORGE WASHINGTON UNIVERSITY baseballers ran wild in the eighth inning of their game with Salem College last night in Griffith Stadium, scored no less than 11 runs and eked out a 14-to-12 victory. It looked like a runaway for the visitors until this big inning, for the Colonials had been held to two hits by Mazza, but, with the aid of errors and walks, had used these in the manufacture of three runs.

But it was different when the eighth rolled around. Mazza might have pulled out of the hole but for errors, but three of them cropped up, coupled with five hits, including Howell's double with the bases loaded, and six walks, and the game was over. Myers relieved Mazza in this round, but was unable immediately to put on the brakes. All told, 14 Colonials went to the tee.

Weingartner Hits Five Batters.

Weingartner, who started on the hill for George Washington, hit five men during the game, three in the first inning, while he walked seven and uncorked three wild pitches. Howell finished the game, starting the seventh. He ran into trouble in the eighth, but, after his team had given him the lead in the lower half of this round, did some good pinch-pitching to pull out of a hole in the ninth, holding Salem scoreless after the visitors had filled the bases with none out.

Bowen and Tiberi, of the visitors, and Albert, of the Colonials, led at bat with three hits each.

Shortstop's Many Duties Are Explained by Cronin

In view of the opening this week of the Capital City League and feeling that timely articles concerning the duties and worth of various members of a baseball team might be of benefit to those playing in the league, The Post herewith presents the fourth of a series of stories by regulars of the Washington team.

By JOE CRONIN
(Nat. Shortstop and Manager).

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 9.—In contrast to the second baseman, whose short throw to first enabled him to take his time in getting the ball away, the shortstop must be ready to throw from out of position at all times. Delay in getting the ball away may be fatal, and thus it is the shortstop's duty to field the ball as close to throwing position as possible, especially when he has to go deep for ground balls. With a runner on first, the shortstop must be ready to cover the bag against dead-right field hitters, who are liable to draw the second baseman into the play. The shortstop always should know the type of ball the pitcher is going to throw, as a left-field hitter is quite apt to slice a fast ball into right, and the shortstop must be on his toes and ready to cover the bag when he gets the pitcher's sign for this fast one.

The pivot play on double plays by the shortstop differs from the second baseman's pivot throw, inasmuch as the shortstop is always coming into second base to take the throw while a second baseman is always going out. The shortstop thus aims to take the throw and step over the bag into the infield and past the runner before the throwing.

Going back after pop flies and Texas leaguers, it is the shortstop's duty to make the catch if he can, but if the ball belongs to the left or center fielder, it is then his duty to yell which man is to take it and avoid collisions that would let the hit drop safely. The best way to learn to catch these pops is to practice them.

The rule for tagging the runner at second is simple. Straddle the bag, plant your glove directly in front of it on the dirt, and you can't miss.

McLean High Scores With Strawser Star

Huron Strawser is something of a hero in the neighborhood of the McLean High School—and justly so. Yesterday Huron hurled his third victory for the school nine, beating Falls Church High, 15-6. However, it was Huron's bat that performed near-miracles. He began by knocking a homer with the bases full and then tripled with the sacks loaded. Just to show he had the range, he later knocked a second homer, but with only one man on base.

Bausch, Olympic Champ, Attacked

Kansas City, May 10 (A.P.).—A "goose egg" behind his right ear, puffed lips and a swollen jaw were displayed today by "Jarring" Jim Bausch, Olympic decathlon champion, as souvenirs of an attack on him by four or five men early today along Fifteenth street.

The men leaped on the running board of a taxi in which he was riding following attendance at a fraternity party at a hotel. Bausch said he lost a wrist watch in the bout, but was not robbed.

He said he remembered nothing after the onslaught until he "woke up" and looked at a policeman who sent him to the Kansas City Athletic Club in a cab.

Plane Line Planned To RehobothBeach

Plans are under way for the formation of a new aviation transportation company serving Washington and Rehoboth Beach, Dela., it became known yesterday.

The contemplated air line would bring the popular Delaware resort withing 45 minutes of Washington as compared to about five hours driving time. A corresponding saving in time would be effected in reaching other shore resorts.

Lester J. Sipe and H. R. Behr, of the York, Pa. Flying Service, Inc., are the principal backers of the plan. They state that they have eight ships ready for the service and that they hope to open operations early in June. Last week they conferred with Charles S. Horn, chairman of the public affairs committee of the Rehoboth Beach Kiwanis Club.

Nine Ships Sell for $7,500.

Chicago, May 10 (A.P.).—For $7,500, nine steamships of the bankrupt Goodrich Transit Co. were auctioned today in the court of Referee in Bankruptcy Garfield Charles.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

EVERY night at dusk out of Bat Cave, near Carlsbad, N. Mex., swarm millions of bats, forming a black cloud at the mouth of the cave. So many bats pour from the black interior of the cave that none can say how many make their homes there—estimates range from 5,000,000 to 25,000,000. At dawn they return, all to the same cave, although there are many caves in the district. During the night, scientists estimate, the swarm of bats has killed about 25 tons of insects.

From prehistoric times the bats have lived in this cave, shunning the others, and it has taken centuries to build the flock up to its present number. The female bat of the species predominating this flock has but one young a year.

Many are the mysteries of Bat Cave, but one which is frequently asked is how the bats, in the pitch black depths of the cave, can tell the moment night falls. After emerging from the cave the bats cover a range extending up to 200 miles from the cave. How they find their way back home in the dead of night is another unanswered question.

The usual theater organ has four manuals, those with five are unusual, but in Atlantic City's Municipal Auditorium is the only seven-manual organ ever built. In addition to seven keyboards to keep track of, the organist must manipulate a set of pedals with his feet. The organ has more than 32,000 pipes, ranging up to 60 feet in length.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

5 BLUE RIBBONS WON BY WHITNEY HORSES AT ANNUAL MEETING

Jumping Remarkably Good at Capital Show With Slippery Footing.

With her entries taking five blue ribbons out of nine classes, Mrs. John Hay Whitney yesterday walked away with the first day's session of the annual National Capital horse show, which probably will be known hereafter as the Mrs. John Hay Whitney horse show.

In addition to the five firsts, a Whitney entry took fourth prize in the modified Olympia class, over one of the stiffest courses ever set up hereabouts. In only one class featuring a Whitney horse did the stable fail to get a ribbon, and this class was composed of the most excellent entries of the day.

Considering the slippery footing of the rain-sodden turf in the ring, the jumping yesterday was remarkably good. This uneasy footing accounted for an unusual incident of the show, when somebody's horse was unable to get a steady hold for his feet and slid head first into a jump, dislodging the top bar with his nose.

Three Casualties for Day.

Three minor casualties featured the first day of the show, which will last through Saturday. In the Olympic class, C. Allen Hechter, of Baltimore, was pitched clear over his horse's head and over the jump when the mount, Ask Him, refused. The rider of Mrs. Robert C. Winmill's Cin Quidado was thrown in the same event when the horse stumbled over a jump, and in green hunters lightweight class, Miss Persis Chase Myers lost her seat when Ticonderoga refused.

Two ugly-looking jumps featured the Olympia class, one an in-and-out, two 4-foot barriers about 20 feet apart, and the other a bar-and-brush jump. The brush was 4 feet high, with the 4-foot bars 3 feet on each side. Only four horses of a large entry list cleared the 6-foot-wide jump, and of these, only Miss Julia G. Whiting's Quick Silver went over it without tipping.

The show, held at Bradley Farms, was given for the Washington Junior League by the National Capital Horse Show Association. About 200 horses are now at the farms and will compete today, tomorrow and Saturday for more than $3,000 in prizes, as well as a number of cups and other trophies.

Junior Leaguers Enliven Show.

In addition to the horses, the Junior Leaguers are enlivening the show with their booths for sale of beer, and other minor refreshments, and entertainment. Luncheon facilities are also provided, with a string orchestra from Howard University in addition. Today's session of the show will be climaxed by the Peter Voorhees DeGraw Memorial Trophy for local hunters.

The winners yesterday by classes were: Two and three year olds suitable to become hunters—First, Loro, Mrs. Whitney; second, Wilderkit, T. H. Somerville; third, Chatter Chat, Mrs. Ellsworth Augustus.

Three and four years olds suitable for hunters—First, Loro, Mrs. Whitney; second, Chatter Chat, Mrs. Augustus; third, Sir Greystone, George R. Slater; fourth, The Hour, Clean Drinking Farm.

Green hunters, middle and heavyweight—First, Nobody's Fool, Mrs. Whitney; second, Sciota, Miss Mary Ellen Corby; third, Master Eclipse, Clifton Farms; fourth, Sand Den, Mrs. Cary Jackson.

Thoroughbred saddle horses—First, Clearanfast, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Plummer; second, Capt. Lawton, Mrs. Augustus; third, Lord Britain, Mrs. Jackson; fourth, Sciota, Miss Corby.

Saddle Group Winners.

Local saddle horses—First, Harriet Lee, Vernon G. Owen; second, Jack Lightning, Mr. Owen; third, Sonny Boy, Hubert R. Quinter; fourth, Happy Time, W. F. Burrows. Green hunters, light weight—First, Spring Hope, Mrs. Whitney; second, B'Wana Muki, Miss Evelyn Walker; third, Sargent, T. H. Somerville; fourth, Sir Greystone, Mr. Slater.

Qualified or green hunters—First, Clearanfast, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Plummer; second, Sand Den, Mrs. Jackson; third, Master Eclipse, Clifton Farms; fourth, Gray Moon, Mr. Owen.

Hunters other than thoroughbred—First, Hopeful Jim, Mrs. Whitney; second, Master Eclipse, Clifton Farms; third, Easter Sunday, F. Moran McConihe; fourth, Wise, Ray H. Norton. Modified Olympia class—First, Quick Silver, Miss Julia Whiting; second, Jumping Fool, Ernest M. Woolf; third, Miss America, a Fort Myer horse show team entry; fourth, Bowling Green, Mrs. Whitney.

RENOVIZE CONTEST JUDGING IS TODAY

Best of 32 Designs Entered in House Competition to Be Selected.

The winner of the competition for supplying a design for renovizing the dilapidated house at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest is expected to be announced by tonight.

Judging will begin at 10 a. m. The judges are T. J. D. Fuller, Irwin S. Porter and T. B. Evermann, all architects. They will be assisted by C. Wohlgemuth, jr., as professional adviser on costs involved in carrying out the design selected by Miss Rose Greely, professional adviser on questions of landscape setting.

While 45 persons entered the contest, only 32 submitted their designs within the specified period. The winner is to be named chairman of the design committee in the Renovize Washington campaign, and will have charge of the renovizing or remodeling the little house. The work will start in a few days. The general committee has had offers of material and labor without cost, and the work will be carefully watched, so that interested persons can obtain, at any time, accurate cost figures.

In selecting the winning design, the judges will be governed by the costs as well as by the beauty and practicability. Following a talk by Harry Hites before the Monarch Club at the Lafayette Hotel yesterday, in which the low cost of labor and materials at the present time were pointed out, several members of the club announced their intention of making necessary repairs at once.

Speakers are to be placed before all the luncheon clubs and other civic organizations in the city, the speaker, in each instance, to see that each person present gets one of the pamphlets, with the coupon for mailing in "intentions to repair."

Capital Girl Nominee For College May Queen

Miss Pauline J. Noffsinger, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. S. Noffsinger, of 3635 Ordway street northwest, is one of the four candidates for queen of the May festival at Juniata College, Huntingdon, Pa., which will be celebrated Saturday.

The traditional practice on the university campus is to elect the queen and her maid of honor. The results of the election will not be known until the day of the festival.

INDICTMENT GIVEN ON THREAT CHARGE

Accused Man Said to Have Admitted Sending Letter to Inn Owners.

Responding quickly to an investigation launched only three days ago, the District grand jury yesterday indicted Leon U. Mason, colored, for allegedly sending a threatening letter to Maj. and Mrs. L. E. Collier, proprietors of Colliers Inn, at Eighteenth street and Columbia road northwest.

The letter, which Mason is alleged to have admitted sending, threatened to kidnap the 2-year-old granddaughter of the couple if $5,000 in cash were not left in an alley in the rear of a cafe owned by the two.

Agents of the Bureau of Investigation awaited the coming of Mason to claim the package, but when he did not show up, his handwriting was compared with that on the note and when a resemblance was allegedly discovered, he was arrested.

Mason, in discussing the incident, is said to have declared that he did not intend to kidnap the child. On the contrary, he said, he merely wanted the grandparents to experience "misery and suffering." Mason is a student at Miner's Teachers College.

BEER MADE TARGET IN BAPTIST SESSION

Hope of Glory and Not Gold Standard Holds Relief, Committee Says.

"It is not a gold standard wherein lies our hope, but a Christ in you—the hope of glory," delegates to the Columbia Association of Baptist Churches were told in a report of their social service committee yesterday at the Metropolitan Baptist Church.

The report, presented by the Rev. T. E. Boorde, pastor of the Temple Baptist Church, observed that "the streams not the sources of supply have continued to fail with the result that hunger, nakedness, want and misery have prevailed to a hitherto unbelievable extent.

Unwise Council Prevails.

"In our extrimity," the report added, "unwise counselors have prevailed upon us to make league with Egypt. A beer bill has been passed, and thus by imposing suffering upon helpless women and children and weak citizens, they promise to raise sufficient revenue to alleviate our suffering."

The annual meeting of the association next year will be held May 8-9, at the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and O streets northwest, of which the Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Porter is pastor. The preacher of the annual sermon will be the Rev. Dr. J. E. Briggs.

Resolutions were adopted at the closing session yesterday thanking the Metropolitan Church for its hospitality, and congratulating Dr. John Compton Ball on his completion of 30 years service in this church. A resolution was also adopted thanking the press for its cooperation.

Minister and Wife Speak.

The Rev. Dr. E. B. Richardson and his wife made addresses at the afternoon session, telling of their visits to mission fields in their recent trip around the world. Children of the Baptist home for children gave exercises.

E. B. Shaver, chairman of the Bible school committee, reported that the total membership of the white Baptist schools in Washington and vicinity is 16,975. There are 1,303 officers and teachers. The expenditures for current and benevolent purposes was $78,380.69, Mr. Shaver said.

The Rev. Dr. J. F. Fraser, pastor of the University Baptist Church, of Baltimore, spoke at the evening meeting.

40 Girls Walk Out When Wage Is Cut

Between 40 and 50 girls employed at the plant of the Century Manufacturing Co., located at the southeast corner of Wilkes and Columbus streets, Alexandria, went on strike yesterday morning, in protest against a cut of 10 per cent in wages.

The women are employed as stitchers and work piecemeal, and their claim is they are now paid such a comparatively small amount weekly, that they can not stand a cut. The workers designated as finishers did not strike.

A total of approximately 77 persons are employed at this plant, most of whom are girls and women, making men's work shirts, and the matter is expected to be adjusted, to prevent closing the plant.

LAWMAKERS GIVEN PRAISE OF COUNSEL

Bride Pays Blanton Tribute at Rotary's Session; Laundry Is Host.

Corporation Counsel William W. Bride yesterday praised Congress and particularly certain members of the Senate and House District Committee for the "fine legislation" it has given the District, in an address before the Washington Rotary Club meeting at the Tolman Laundry at 5310 Wisconsin avenue. The club was entertained by Fred W. Mackenzie, president of the laundry company.

Senators King and Capper, Representatives Mary Norton and Tom Blanton were singled out as being especially deserving of appreciation. Of the latter, he said:

Thanks Blanton for Interest.

"I have heard many men criticise my good friend Tom Blanton. He has always had a hearty and willing defender in me. I have not agreed with him on many occasions, but I am firm in my belief that the District of Columbia is a better place to live in because of his interest in us."

Mr. Bride, in explaining the duties of his office, recalled that Calvin Coolidge once remarked that while he didn't want to be President again he would like to return to Washington as corporation counsel. Francis Scott Key was one of the first to hold the job. The salary of "city attorney," as the post was first designated, was $500 until the administration of President Grant.

A Great Safety Valve.

Referring to recent municipal legislation, Mr. Bride said that he "knew of no city that has more progressive legislation" and that Congress "has been a great safety valve on local expenditures," though "perhaps a bit too niggardly in the Federal contribution."

The corporation counsel said he preferred that his assistants lose their cases in court than that they should "put one over on a citizen" by winning a suit in which the District was at fault.

Fuel Station Manager Abducted and Robbed

Police last night were searching for two young bandits who robbed and abducted Raymond Clements, manager of a gasoline station at Fifteenth street and Rhode Island avenue northeast, early yesterday.

Clements told police that the men entered his station shortly after midnight and asked for gas. Before he could move one of the men produced a gun and trained it on him. The manager was forced into the bandit car and driven to the 3500 block of Twelfth street northeast, where he was robbed of $11 and ejected from the machine.

Princess Wracket Freed by Kidnapers

Princess Wracket has been found. The Great Dane, valued at $1,000 by her owner, Frank Feeney, 1602 L street northwest, and reportedly held for a $200 ransom, is safe at home, while police are searching for the alleged kidnapers.

George Wiseman, jailor at the Hyattsville lockup, found the dog yesterday morning walking along the railroad tracks between Hyattsville and Bladensburg.

The dog has been missing since May 1. Sunday Feeney received a phone call from some one refusing to give a name who demanded $200 for the return of Princess Wracket.

Maryland police learned yesterday that a dog answering the description was brought to a Riverdale, Md., resident for boarding. The man, believing he recognized the dog from published pictures, refused to accept the pet. The alleged kidnapers, it is believed, became frightened and released the dog.

Two Indicted on Murder Charge.

Two colored men yesterday were indicted on charges of first-degree murder by the District grand jury. They were Levin J. Lucas, who is charged with shooting Florence Hose, colored, and Charles E. Hendrick, who is accused of the slaying of Thomas Blackwell, also colored.

TRAFFIC TOLL

TO DATE.

A great number of accidents may be attributed to the ignorance of motorists and pedestrians about traffic laws. If both would make a point of reading the regulations, remembering what they read, this situation could be obliterated.

The figures are:

	1932.	1933.
Deaths	45	26
Injuries	1,404	1,285
Accidents	3,062	2,950

"Be Careful!"

FIDAC MEDAL GIVEN TO GEORGETOWN U. BY POLISH GENERAL

Gorecki Says Award Made Because of Work Toward World Peace.

Coupled with a plea for world peace and better understanding between nations, Gen. Roman Gorecki, of Poland, president of the Fidac, international organization of World War veterans, formally presented to Georgetown University last night the Fidac educational medal for its furtherance of these aims.

"The Fidac stands for peace based upon a brotherly understanding and cooperation," he said in presenting the medal to Dr. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of the university. "Working for peace our respective nations must be prudent and patient in the conduct of international affairs.

"To promote these ideals, the Fidac grants every year for each country three educational medals to institutions of learning which have been particularly prominent in furthering the cause of peace. The care which your institution has always devoted to the study of international relations and the very high standing of your Foreign Service School has prompted the executive committee of Fidac to accept heartily the suggestion of the American Legion that Georgetown University be thus honored this year."

Traced to Wilson.

Referring to Polish-American relations and tracing the friendship of the two countries since the days of the American Revolution to the sympathy of Woodrow Wilson for Poland, Gen. Gorecki said:

"We see, therefore, that Polish-American relations are based not only on a community of interests but on a community of sentiment and tradition." I can only hope this mutual sentiment will continue to animate the relations between the two countries for years to come."

The ceremony was one of the most interesting and colorful held at the university during the year. Flags of the allied nations during the World War and the presence of military officers and diplomats in dress uniforms gave an international aspect to the occasion.

An academic procession preceded the exercises in which the official representatives of the nine affiliated nations, as well as officials of Fidac and the American Legion took part.

Many Notables Present.

Seated on the stage were the Ambassador of Poland and Italy, the Ministers of Roumania, Czechoslovakia and Jugoslavia. Other official representatives included Maj. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, U. S. A., deputy Chief of Staff, for the United States; Count Francois de Bruisseret, First Secretary of the Belgian Embassy; Brig. Gen. Francois Pillon, military attache of the French Embassy, and H. Gabriel da Silva, first secretary of the Legation of Portugal. The president of the American Section of Fidac, Commander Charles Hann, jr., and Departmental Commander Norman B. Landreau of the American Legion in the District of Columbia, also were present.

Dr. Edmund A. Walsh, S. J., regent of the School of Foreign Service, made the introductory address.

Peace Pacts Praised.

Pacts for the outlawry of war, economic conferences and other international efforts to diminish dangers between nations are commendable, Dr. Walsh said, "but they furnish inadequate guarantees of peace unless simultaneously we disarm the spirit of hatred and distrust among nations, tranquilize men's hearts and educate them to mutual respect and reciprocal confidence."

As souvenirs of the occasion, President Nevils presented to Gen. Gorecki and each of the official representatives of the nine affiliated Fidac countries a silver medal bearing the seal of Georgetown University.

A reception followed the exercises.
